IRON HOOK, ALLEGED WEAPON USED IN PATTERSON SLAYING, INTRODUCED BY PROSECUTION

The prosecution of Philip A. Goodwin, charged with murder, today introduced in evidence the weapon which it alleges Goodwin used to crush the skull of Joseph J. Patterson.

A heavy iron hook, unearthed two weeks ago at a spot within four feet of where the body of Patterson was found, was identified by Guadalupe Lemus, the Mexican who found Patterson, as a hook he previously had used in stump pulling in the vicinity of the scene of the crime.

The hook, Lemus said, originally was connected with the footbridge across the Santa Ana river at that point. It became detached and was used for stump pulling. Lemus said that he had left the hook in an iron box beside a tree in the vicinity.

Cashed Check March 18

Albert D. Gaines, star prosecution witness and co-defendant of Goodwin, cashed a check dated March 18, three days after the alleged slaying of Patterson, which check bore Patterson's signature.

Goodwin's defense brought out this fact today under cross-examination of Gaines, scoring sensationally against the prosecution's "ace," whose "confession" forms the backbone of the case against Goodwin.

Gaines, in admitting that he had cashed the $14 check in a Los Angeles bank, declared that he had not noticed the signature attached to the check and said that he could not remember, he said, whether it had been written and cashed before or after the trip to San Diego, taken by Patterson, Goodwin and Gaines. Although the check was dated March 18, he could not say whether it was correctly dated.

Gaines said that the check had been handed to him, a blank, and that he had filled it out, except for the signature, then returned it to Goodwin. They were in the home of the Rev. Gregory Lines, bishop of the American Catholic church, in Los Angeles, at the time, he said.

Later, said Gaines, the check was returned to him by Goodwin and then had the signature, but he had not noticed what signature. He had taken the check to a Los Angeles bank and cashed it, without identification, he said.

Kitt Gould, defense attorney, openly revealed his skepticism regarding Gaines' explanation of the check.

"You don't remember when you wrote that check," he shouted at the witness, "but you remember three days before that you had seen the body of Patterson, left in the brush, with the smoke cloud rising about it," and the attorney raised his hands aloft dramatically.

The check incident was admitted to be a blow at Gaines, but the prosecution refused to admit that it aided the cause of Goodwin. It featured an extremely sharp cross-examination, which still was under way as the noon recess approached. Gaines had been on the stand since 2:15 p. m. yesterday.

Gets Handwriting Specimens

Shortly before the $14 check was sprung on Gaines, Gould obtained specimens of his handwriting, forming the name "Joseph J. Patterson." The defense, it is anticipated, will point a very strong resemblance between this writing and Patterson's admitted signature, presumably seeking to show that Gaines, instead of Goodwin, was the probable forger of indorsements to Patterson's securities.

During the cross-examination of Gaines, District Attorney Nelson stated, in court, that Gaines had not been promised immunity in return for testifying against Goodwin. The defense had been questioning Gaines regarding that point.

Albert D. Gaines was the tug in a deadly tug-of-war enacted yesterday and today in the murder trial of the Rev. Philip A. Goodwin.

The co-defendant of Goodwin was, first, the human larrikin with which the prosecution "roped" Goodwin and sought to drag him to the gallows. Next, he was the life-line, with which Defense Counsel Gould strove to rescue the priest from the engulfing fate prepared for him.

Both sides made desperate efforts to prove their case from the testimony of the state's star witness, who went to the stand yesterday afternoon to "clinch" the prosecution's contention that Father Goodwin murdered Joseph J. Patterson.

The prosecution pictured Gaines as a voluntary narrator of the true facts in the Patterson case; his story a "confession" of his own minor part in a brutal murder, immediately by the priest for financial gain. But the defense, in cross-examination, offered the jury an altogether different view of the state's ace.

The defense pictured him as a hardened criminal, an ex-convict and, by his own statements, probably so drunk at the time he said the murder was committed that his testimony on the matter would be most unreliable. There was little doubt left in the court room, when Gould finished with Gaines, that the defense not only would carry on with its avowed intention of establishing an alibi for Goodwin, but would strive to throw guilt for the murder upon Gaines—granting that any murder of Patterson was committed, which the defense has openly doubted.

Gaines' story, long awaited by the trial audience, was heard with breathless interest. There was a little gasp of expectation as he was called to the stand by Prosecutors Nelson and Mozley at 2:15 p. m. The climax of the trial had arrived!

Tells Of Shortcomings

Gaines' attitude on the stand was one of naive, boyish candor. He spoke ingenuously of his own moral shortcomings, his prison records, his thirst for liquor and its effect upon him during the alleged death ride of Joseph J. Patterson last March.

Gaines' own frankness in the detail of his story may have taken much of the sting out of Attorney Gould's later grilling of the witness. There wasn't much the defense could bring out about Gaines' unsavory past that Gaines himself already hadn't admitted. But the defense hammered hard on Gaines' admission that he drank much liquor on the trip to San Diego with Patterson and Goodwin and was far from being his sober self on the return trip, when he says Goodwin made away with Patterson. Gaines, however, stoutly denied that he was drunk.

As to names of places, roads and directions, Gaines was most vague. He never had been over the ground before, he said, and did not know where the route had led. He had received money from Goodwin a few days after the murder and had taken a train from Los Angeles to Utah, but he didn't know what train, nor from what railway station it had departed.

Gaines' vagueness was capitalized by the defense and Kitt Gould, diminutive counsel for Goodwin, was all over the witness with questions, like a persistent horsefly stinging a slow-moving plow animal. Gaines was so annoyed at one time that he turned to Judge Marks for relief.

Appeals To Judge

"He's asking me a lot of foolish questions," appealed the witness. "Well, you try to answer them as best you can," advised the judge.

Again, Gaines remarked: "I don't walk to talk too much," and Gould caught him up quickly. "I don't blame you," the attorney said meaningly.

Gaines began his story by telling of a letter he had received from Goodwin prior to last March, in response to which he came from Ogden, Utah, to Los Angeles, to join Goodwin.

"I had met him in the Utah state prison," Gaines said. "I didn't know he had become a priest and when I saw him in priest's clothing, in Los Angeles, I asked him if he was trying to kid the world." Gaines said that Goodwin, at that remark, rebuked him for showing "disrespect to the cloth."

Goodwin and Gaines went to an auto livery and rented a Chrysler touring car, after Goodwin had rejected Gaines' choice of a Dodge sedan. They started for San Diego, with Patterson.

Stopped By Motor Cop

"Near Capistrano," said Gaines, "Jack Dempsey's car passed us and I tried to keep up with him. I found it was a pretty hard job. Then a motor cop passed me and pulled Dempsey's car up beside the road. I slowed down when the cop passed, but as I went by him he told me to stop, too."

Gaines had difficulty in remembering whether he had signed the arrest slip with the name Ed Cramer, said to be a friend of Goodwin. Goodwin stepped into the road and talked to the officer, but Gaines couldn't remember whether he, also, had alighted from the car. Walter Meyer, the officer, previously had testified that he could not remember whether Gaines or Goodwin signed the slip, which has figured in the evidence.

Gaines said that, because he never had been over the road before, he did not know what towns he had gone through. He said that the party picked up a soldier, walking along the road, and took him to the barracks in San Diego. In San Diego, he said, Goodwin left him and Patterson, saying that he would stop at the U. S. Grant hotel and would see them the next day, Sunday. Gaines and Patterson placed the car in a garage and registered at the Manhattan hotel, in adjoining rooms, having a window between them. Gaines identified their signatures on the register, shown as "Johnny Wilson," for Gaines, and "Harry Howlett," for Patterson. The name "Harry Howlett" was said by R. B. Patterson, brother of the dead man, to be the name of a boyhood friend and neighbor of the Pattersons in Missouri.

Says Goodwin Bought Gas

Next day, said the witness, Goodwin failed to keep his appointment with them, but they eventually encountered him near the U. S. Grant hotel. Sunday evening, at about 6 o'clock, the trio started homeward for Los Angeles, he said. Goodwin had directed the journey down the coast and, when they started home, told Gaines to turn off on the inland road. Goodwin, said the witness, had purchased a can of gasoline to carry in the car, saying that it was a long way between towns on the way they were going.

"We drove for a long while without coming to any towns," said Gaines. At midnight they stopped to eat in a town, the name of which Gaines did not know, but which he afterward learned was Escondido, he said. He had been taken over the ground by the authorities after his arrest and, after his confession, had led the authorities to the points he said the party had visited. The prosecution claims that Gaines' story has been checked at all points up to the scene of the crime and found to be true. Evidence heretofore offered by the state has been largely corroborative of the Gaines story.

After leaving Escondido, Gaines drove many more miles, he said, and finally, as the sun was coming up, the party came down a canyon road. Goodwin remarked that Patterson was too drunk to take home and that he, Goodwin, knew some people, down the road a little way, with whom they could leave Patterson. Gaines had secured liquor at a downtown cigar stand in San Diego, he said. He and Patterson had consumed it, between them, Goodwin abstaining. Patterson was drunk and Gaines, himself, although not drunk, was so unsteady that he had difficulty steering the car in the road, he said.

Drove Down Side Road

They came to a lane leading off the paved highway, through a barbed wire gate. Gaines identified a panoramic photograph of the gate, the side road and the scene of the alleged murder, at that point of his testimony. He said that, at Goodwin's direction, he drove down the side road until it ended in brush and Goodwin told him they could go no farther with the car. Goodwin, said the witness, helped Patterson out of the car, seated him on the can of gasoline, telling Gaines to drive back to the highway and wait, as he would take Patterson across the river on a foot-bridge. Gaines obeyed, he said.

He may have fallen asleep while waiting in the car, he said. It was about 7 a. m., he thought, when they stopped. It may have been 45 minutes or an hour when Goodwin returned, without Patterson, apparently in a great state of agitation, according to Gaines.

"Where's Patterson?" Gaines asked him, but the priest, nervous and trembling, he said, snapped him off.

"God, don't speak of him!" the priest half shouted, according to the witness.

As they drove away, Gaines again asked Goodwin about Patterson, he said, but the priest only responded, "I told you not to talk about him." Gaines, looking at Patterson, apparently in a great state of agitation, according to Gaines.

ALLEGED IRON DEATH WEAPON IS INTRODUCED

back at the thicket beside the river, saw smoke curling up over the brush, he declared. Goodwin had brought the empty gasoline can back to the car with him and pitched it out of the car, Gaines said, as they were crossing a bridge over a dry river bed, some miles from the scene of the alleged crime.

They reached the auto rental station in Los Angeles at about 9 a. m., Gaines said. His testimony on that point corresponded to that of E. E. Dunn, owner of the auto livery, and also corresponded, the state contends, to the length of time it would ordinarily require to drive the distance between Santa Ana canyon and Los Angeles, if the crime was committed at the hour Gaines testified it was.

Says Priest Paid Him The defense, after grilling Gaines on each stage of his testimony, went into the question of his movements following the return to Los Angeles. He said that Goodwin had paid him $400, which the priest previously had borrowed, and escorted him to a train, which carried Gaines to Utah. Goodwin paid him the money and parted with him on the station platform, said the witness. He was unable to tell Goodwin what station it was or what railway route. Nor could he explain how Goodwin and himself had gained access to the platform without tickets.

Milton Carlson, Los Angeles handwriting expert, finished his stay on the witness stand just before Gaines appeared. As climax to a long grilling by Gould, he was asked whether alleged forgeries upon Patterson's oil stock certificates, alleged to have been sold by Goodwin after the murder, were committed by Goodwin.

"I'd rather not say, positively, although I have my own opinion," the expert demurred. "I have illustrated and analyzed the facts in this handwriting. The rest of it is for the jury to decide." The witness finally indicated, that he believed Goodwin had forged the indorsements on the stock.

TRIAL SIDELIGHTS

Miss Rhoda Gould, assistant to her father, the defense attorney, today received from an admirer, a carton of expensive, perfumed soap and a bottle of equally expensive perfume. She regarded the gift doubtfully. "I wonder does he think my face is dirty?" she murmured.

Kitt Gould and his daughter will locate in Santa Ana if they win the Goodwin case, they said today. They had made up their mind that they wanted to live in this city, they said, before the case developed.

Four unknown motion picture actresses are sending flowers regularly to the Rev. Mr. Goodwin. It has been disclosed. The identity of only one has been learned, or at least asserted by very reliable authority. She is one of the most noted of all the Hollywood stars, famed for her flapper roles. Goodwin was asked if this particular star was sending him flowers, but he refused to answer. "Why drag my friends into my trouble?" he asked.

"They may talk about the prosecution's chain of evidence and how it is being felled, link by link," said Miss Gould today. "But let me say this, my chain is stronger than its weakest link." She indicated that this was to be considered prophetic.

FOUR ARE INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

Mrs. Pauline Cleary and three small sons, 902 East Pine street, were reported injured at 5:45 p. m. yesterday, when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a truck driven by E. L. Taulbee, 30, 610 East Myrtle street, at the intersection of Pine street and Orange avenue.

Report of the accident was made to city police. Mrs. Cleary was driving the Cleary machine at the time of the accident, according to the report. None of those injured were thought to be seriously hurt. They were taken to their homes. No arrests were made.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated, breath feverish and stomach sour?

"California Fig Syrup" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Adv.

NAVY OFFICER IS SURPRISED THAT PEOPLE OF COUNTY HAVE NEGLECTED DEVELOPING PORT

Expressing surprise that a progressive people, such as he believes the citizenry of Orange county to be, should permit an asset such as Newport bay to remain, to this late date, an undeveloped harbor, Lt. F. L. Riefkohl, of the U. S. destroyer Corry, anchored off Balboa pier during Navy day, today declared that in his long service with the navy on the east coast and in foreign water, he had seen no body of water better situated or more susceptible of quick conversion into a harbor than Newport bay.

With the Goodwin murder case occupying the courts, there was no room for the manslaughter trial of Paul Clifton, Los Angeles youth, when the case came up yesterday in Superior Judge E. J. Marks' department.

Clifton's trial was postponed to November 8. Clifton was in court with his counsel, O. A. Jacobs, when the case was "continued." Clifton is being prosecuted in connection with the death of his fiancée, Miss Melba Fields, 22, who was killed when a car driven by Clifton overturned on West Fifth street, near Santa Ana. The couple had been to Santa Ana to obtain a marriage license, but found the license bureau closed.

TWO MORE CALVES STOLEN IN COUNTY

Two calves were stolen from the farm of Jesus Fleuro, near Talbert, last night, according to a report filed with the sheriff's office.

The robbery last night is the fourth reported in Orange county this week, all of the calves stolen in approximately the same manner. The calves stolen last night were black and white Jersey heifers, one 2 months old, the other 15 days of age.

Sheriff's officers are working on a clue found at the Fleuro place. Reports from the Los Angeles sheriff's office today went to the effect that persons in that county also are losing calves through thefts each night, local officers said.

Driver Charged On Three Counts

Ball of $250 was made in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court early today by Ernest Didier, 22, Karo hotel, Santa Ana, for his appearance, tomorrow morning, in answer to charges of cutting in, driving a machine while under the influence of liquor and reckless driving. The man was arrested by E. G. Yoder, state traffic officer, and was held in the county jail last night.

Scout Corner

The scouts annual Halloween party is scheduled to be held at Orange County park, Friday evening, October 29, starting with a picnic dinner of scouts and parents at 6 o'clock, and continuing on at 7 o'clock with a big ghost hunt. A. B. Prescott, field executive, has found a very interesting note, under the following conditions, which will be revealed at that time:

Some years ago, a man employed as a patrolman by the U. S. forest service to keep campers and picnickers from starting fires and doing other damage in the hills, had a very peculiar experience. It occurred on Oct. 29, 1923. As he was walking through a small canyon east of what was then called Orange County park, he fell into a pit so covered with dead leaves and brush that he didn't see it. Being filled with curiosity to know how this pit came to be there, he immediately began to investigate and found to his utmost surprise that here and there were large pieces of coal. Continuing his quest, he began to dig into the soft coal, and discovered the queerest looking piece of what he thought must be coal or slate, though it was different from anything he ever had seen. He examined it more closely and found that it was an old pocketbook. It had been so soaked with water and so covered with mould that he was about to toss it aside when he saw, sticking out from one of the sides, a little edge of paper. After some little difficulty, he succeeded in getting it open and found a note folded very carefully. The writing was quite blurred, but as he opened it up he found—that is what Prescott is going to read to the Scouts at the rally.

Scouts from all over the county are expected to participate in this annual treasure hunt and camp fire. Later, H. G. Nelson, scout commissioner, will present Eagle badges to the following named scouts: Stanley Reeder, Wynton Villott and Don Keller, of Fullerton No. 3; Gilbert Melsenger, Santa Ana No. 10, and Kiyoshi Higoshi, Santa Ana No. 3.

This rank of Eagle is the highest rank in scouting and represents work covering approximately two or three years of time on the part of each of these scouts. In addition to this, the scout must be an outstanding boy in school and in his troop and must put into practice the scout oath and scout law.

BRILLIANT INFIELD
The St. Louis Cardinals should have one of the fastest infields in the majors next year. Thevenow and Bell, as a result of the confidence their fine showing in the world series should instill in them, are certain to be much improved players at short and third.

Great deposits of magnetic iron ore have been found recently in Sinaloa, Mexico.

"I hope voters of Orange county on December 14 will approve the proposed issue of bonds of $850,000 for establishment of a permanent and safe entrance to the bay," the lieutenant commander said. "The bay is one of the few land-locked bodies of water on the eastern and western coasts and it is a great surprise to me to find that the opportunities offered for a real port have been neglected by the residents of this rich and prosperous county."

Officers Honor Guests
Officers of the Corry were honor guests, last night, at a turkey dinner in the clubhouse of the Newport Harbor Yacht club, the function being the finale of the program of entertainment for the officers and men of the government vessel. In a brief after-dinner talk, Lieutenant Commander Riefkohl commented on the tour of the county, yesterday, by the officers and approximately 50 "gobs." He asserted that the ride through the county had revealed to him a back country unsurpassed anywhere for variety of production and richness of soil.

Dr. Conrad Richter, mayor of Newport Beach, in his usual finished style, officiated as toastmaster.

Those responding to the call for short talks were George Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce; Horace Fine, of the Register staff; B. H. Sidnam, Anaheim realtor; Harry Welch, secretary of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce, and George Jeffrey, supervisor from the fifth district. Mrs. E. W. Dvorak, recent arrival in Balboa, delighted the group with two clever readings.

Dancing Concludes Evening
Dancing by radio and phonograph music concluded the evening.

The honored guests were Lieutenant Commander Riefkohl, Lieutenants G. F. Martin, J. E. Stephens and E. Sperry and Ensign M. S. Bailey. Guests invited to greet the officers were Dr. Conrad Richter, H. H. Williamson, Fred W. Young and Felix Modjeska, members of the city council of the host city; Supervisor and Mrs. George Jeffrey, Mrs. H. H. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Sidnam, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. George Raymer, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Dvorak, Miss Lillian Van Osada, Miss Sheldon Remann, Miss Charlotte Fine, Miss Cleora Fine, Ray Saunders, Harry Hyde, D. B. Chapin and Horace Fine.

LEGION TO DISCUSS CELEBRATION PLANS

Final plans for the Armistice day celebration to be held here November 11, and sponsored by the Orange County American Legion, will be made at the meeting of the Santa Ana post No. 131, tonight, according to a statement made by Jules Markel, commander, today.

The meeting will begin at 8 p. m. and several new members will be taken into the organization. Due to the fact that regular meeting dates of the post in November fall on holidays, tonight's gathering may be the last before the celebration, unless the post agrees to change the regular dates in November.

CIRCULATION OF PERIODICALS IN SCHOOL CURBED

Recommendations that county and city superintendents of schools take immediate steps to check the practice of using the public schools for the extension of newspaper or magazine circulation, or the circulation, on the school premises, of publications of a sectarian or political character, are contained in advices received this morning at the office of the county superintendent of schools from Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction.

State Superintendent Wood declared that his attention has been called to the fact that certain newspapers and periodicals are attempting to increase their circulation by using the schools to obtain subscriptions. Usually the business of securing subscriptions is presented in a very plausible light. The school principal or superintendent is told that some funds for the student body may be earned in this manner, the state official observes.

He also adds that complaints already have been filed with his office against allowing publications of a sectarian or political character to circulate through the public schools.

Industrials To Be Depicted In Armistice Float

Industrials of Santa Ana will be depicted by a float to be entered in the Armistice day parade, plans for which were approved by directors of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce at a meeting this morning. C. E. Camm, chairman of the float committee, outlined plans for the float.

The directors passed two resolutions on amendments to be voted on November 2, approving No. 10, the bond issue for state and university buildings, and opposing No. 18, the power bond act.

EX-SENATOR FINED BY JUDGE MORRISON

I. L. Pyle, 45, of 4611 South Wilton place, Los Angeles, said to have been, at one time, a state senator in Washington, was in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court today, in answer to a charge of speeding and a charge of failure to appear. He was given a total fine of $50.

Pyle was arrested yesterday afternoon by James Cain, state officer, in Los Angeles, and returned to jail here last night. Pyle said he had given his ticket to an automobile club, and understood it had been taken care of.

Officer Ray Bradford, of the state traffic squad, first arrested Pyle several weeks ago, charging him with speeding 43 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone and 35 miles an hour in a 15-mile zone.

Hallowe'en Bridge Is Enjoyed by Guests
Of Miss Wilde

Bridge with a decided Hallowe'en flavor, was the amusement of a group of congenial friends who last night enjoyed the hospitality of Miss Janey Wilde at her home, 533 French street. The face, grinning from the porch light, greeted arriving guests, while a weird black cat sat at them from the door.

Within the pleasant home, the same seasonal features prevailed, and included clusters of particularly beautiful dahlias.

Preliminary to the session of bridge, the guests were asked to take part in a Hallowe'en jelly-bean hunt, which yielded an appropriate prize to Miss Maurie Hamill who secured the most. Bridge tables were then placed and pumpkin tally cards distributed.

At the close of the evening, Mrs. Gene Robinson held high score and Miss Priscilla Allen, low. The former received a set of beautifully embroidered linen tea napkins and the latter, a basket of fresh dates. The gifts were wrapped in orange tissue and tied with black ribbons. The attractive brown linen cardtable covers were then replaced by embroidered linens and Miss Wilde, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Fred Wilde, served chicken en pate with coffee and little hot biscuits followed by delectable angel food cake.

Probably the most popular guest of the evening was tiny Miss Jean Robinson whose wide blue eyes surveyed the merry scene with much interest, after she awakened from a sleep that no amount of laughter and conversation could disturb. Others enjoying the evening with Miss Wilde were Jean's mother, Mrs. Gene Robinson, Mrs. Fred Wilde, Mrs. Eleanor Elliott, Mrs. Ray Keeler, Mrs. Bruce Switzer, the Misses Kathleen Owens, Betty Newlands, Maurie Hamill, Helen Craemer, Beth Docherty and Priscilla Allen.

Santa Ana Musicians
To Give Program
At Our Village

Santa Ana music lovers are quite well aware of the treat that awaits Laguna Beach tomorrow night when those two favorites, Ione Tunison Peek, pianist, and Holly Lash Visel, dramatic soprano, appear in joint program under the auspices of the Woman's club of "Our Village." Both artists are extremely popular here in their home city, and have appeared on countless programs, but this will be their first joint recital in what is planned as a series of programs before clubs and different musical organizations of the Southland.

Mrs. Visel, prominent in Choral Union operas as they have been given for the last half dozen years, not only has sung leading roles in them, but has given her talent and her lovely voice upon countless other occasions. For the past three years she has been associated as student assistant teacher and chorus director with Ellis Rhodes, founder and director of the Choral Union and one of the leading voice teachers of the state. She maintains studios in both Orange and Santa Ana.

Mrs. Peek spent the summer in France where she studied at Fontainebleau under Isidor Phillip and Camille Decree, and where she was one of six students to receive the Fontainebleau conservatory's highest award, the diploma for execution in piano. Her work there gave the final finishing touch to her rare technique, and music critics laud her playing as smooth and satisfying to a marked degree.

The two artists have prepared a program for tomorrow's recital which is varied enough to satisfy all tastes. It will open with a vocal group and with Mrs. Peek at the piano, Mrs. Visel will sing "O Had I Jubal's Lyre" by Handel, "Amaryllis" by Ambrose and "Grandma" by Sachs.

For her first piano group, Mrs. Peek has chosen a trio of old French airs, "Les Hirondelles," "Les Maillorents" and "Les Fiftres." She will remain at the piano to play for the second song group, "The Lamp-lighter" and "The Luxembourg Gardens" by Kathleen Lockhart Manning, and "Carnaval" by Faurdin. The second piano group will be devoted to De Bussey and his "Claire de Lune" and "Poissins d'Or" will be played, and the program will come to a close with the Aria from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," "One Fine Day."

The Laguna Beach Woman's clubhouse will be the scene of the event, and the program will open at 2:30 o'clock.

Surprise Shower for Bride-to-be

Miss Aletha Jones, whose engagement to John McFadden was revealed to her friends only Monday night and whose marriage will occur next Saturday, was very much surprised last night at the weekly dinner of the Wrycende Maegden (the Y. W. club of young business girls) to find herself deluged with kitchen utensils for the new home she will soon enter.

The Wrycende Maegden meets each Wednesday evening for dinner in the Y. W. rooms in the Masonic building, so the gathering of girls was no surprise to Miss Jones, but when they were all seated ready to dine, and Miss Blanche Yokum entered with a great box of gifts and placed it before her, her amazement was keenly enjoyed by the thirty or more conspirators.

During the evening, the club members listened with much interest to Attorney Clara Cushman, a member of the Business and Professional Women's club, who talked on "Laws We All Should Know."

Tea Towels Presented
September Bride at Bridge Party

Much to her surprise, Mrs. Orlo Moncrief, one of September's brides, found herself the honored guest at a delightful party given Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Lee Buck at her pleasant home, 127 South Main street. Mrs. Moncrief's first intimation that she was being so honored came at the bridge tables when composites of pink and white candy hearts were placed for the players to enjoy, and the hearts at her table were concealed beneath a wee pink umbrella with the word "Shower" written on it.

It was an unusually enjoyable afternoon, and Mrs. Buck had planned a very pretty decorative effect which was carried out with quantities of pink and white flowers. After the bridge session in which Mrs. Henry Gibson took first honors and received a pretty hand-painted plate and Mrs. Jack Wallingford was consoled with a gold tissue rose for her fur or coat lapel, the tables were decked with snowy linens for serving refreshments.

Centering each table was a cluster of pale pink roses, fashioned by the clever fingers of the hostess and revealing nature in their loveliness. At each place were similar but smaller blossoms which concealed the salted almonds. The effect was that of a flower garden, and Mrs. Buck was highly complimented upon her originality and skill. Before the guests devoted their attention to the dainty tea menu served, the surprise of the afternoon came for the honoree, when the hostess presented her with an attractive pink box covered with rosebuds to correspond with the prevailing decorative motif. The box was filled to overflowing with tea-towels, each one hand-embroidered in appropriate design, and designed to supplement the young bride's supply of household linens. After the gifts had been duly admired, Mrs. Buck, assisted by Mrs. Ray Fraser and Mrs. Wilford Lewis, served the two-course refreshment menu.

Mr. and Mrs. "Moncrief" home at 810 North Y. Ness avenue, contains many handsome gifts which express the interest felt in their wedding by a host of friends and the welcome accorded the bride here in her former home. Perhaps the handsomest gift of all is the set of silver presented by Mr. Moncrief's associates in the sheriff's office.

Those who enjoyed the shower arranged by Mrs. Buck in addition to the honoree, were Mrs. C. C. Lambert, Tustin; Mrs. Robert Dyckman, Costa Mesa; Mrs. Wil Langley, San Francisco; Mrs. Wilford Lewis, Mrs. Ray Fraser, Mrs. Henry Buck, Mrs. James Henry, Miss Alleen Buck, Mrs. Elwood Smith, Mrs. Frank Sawyer, Mrs. Henry Gibson, Mrs. Lauren Hurd, Mrs. Jack Wallingford and Mrs. Otto Buer.

Church Members Meet
At Director's Home

While E. R. Murphy, member of the board of directors of the Christian Alliance church, Bishop street and Cypress avenue, was attending prayer meeting last night, 50 members of the church gained entrance to his home and surprised him upon his return. The occasion was the eighty-first birthday of Mr. Murphy and his many friends presented him with a suitable gift. After an evening of entertainment, refreshments, brought by the self-invited guests, were served.

Orange Composer Has Songs Interpreted
By Hulda Dietz

A most pleasant and interesting evening was enjoyed by the members of the Orange County Music Teachers' association, Monday evening, in the studio of Earl Fraser, by an unusually large number present. There being very little old or new business to transact the program began at an earlier hour than usual.

The members were delighted when Leon Eckles introduced Hulda Dietz as vocalist for the evening. Her first songs were from Robert Louis Stevenson's book, "The Child's Garden of Verses" and were as follows: "The Wind," "The Cow" and "The Rain." The musical settings for these songs were written by the president of the association, Miss Phyllis Lucy Keyes, and who accompanied the singer at the piano.

The music was characteristic of the words of the songs and expressed the thought of each poem. A short intermission followed and then Mrs. Dietz gave another group of songs written by Miss Keyes.

The words were the poems of Sara Teasdale and the first number was entitled "Night Song from Amalfi," which was given a weird, plaintive suggestion by the music. A very light and dainty arrangement signified the poem, "The Look," and Mrs. Dietz's charming personality aided greatly in bringing out the fullest interpretations of the song.

"Dusk in June" brought the climax of the evening and was received so enthusiastically that a repetition was necessary.

Miss Keyes is to be complimented on her ability for song writing. Her chord progressions were in the most modern form and her melodies were very charming. Some of these songs have been published but the latter group is still in manuscript.

Several new members were initiated into the association which is showing greater interest and rapid growth each meeting. The new year is about to open and offers an opportunity for other teachers to join the organization. Next meeting will be Monday evening, November 22.

Eighty-first Birthday
Is Celebrated

Since yesterday was the eighty-first anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Katie Hendricks, a group of officers from the Royal Neighbors (of which she is an active member) gathered at her home, 820 West Sixth street, to aid her in celebrating.

A happy afternoon was passed in needlework and chat, and Mrs. Hendricks was honored with beautiful flowers in honor of the day. Ere the departure of her guests, she served delicious birthday cake and fruit punch. Those sharing the afternoon's pleasure, were Mesdames Flora Dolbe, Marie Knight, Louella Stewart, Leona Sundstrum, Jean Tibbitts, Laura Dunlap, Etta D. Sweet and the hostess, Mrs. Hendricks.

ORANGE CHILD IS HURT WHEN CAP EXPLODES

Death stalked near last night, when Bob Bonebrake, 9, son of City Engineer and Mrs. C. C. Bonebrake, Orange, struck a "bird shot" shell with a hammer.

The "bird shot" proved to be a dynamite cap and, in the explosion which resulted, portions of Bob's left thumb and left first finger were torn away.

The Bonebrakes moved into the residence at 435 South Orange avenue, where the accident occurred, a few days ago. Bob, child-like, started out to investigate. Last night, he found a collection of what he thought was bird shot shells. Had the lad struck more than one of the caps with the hammer, he would have been blown to pieces, it is thought.

The lad's injuries were dressed by a physician immediately following the accident and it is believed that he will suffer no ill effects.

Police officers are investigating the ownership of the caps. The theory has been advanced that a safecracker, perhaps had pressed by police or desiring a hiding place, placed them in the garage, vacant at the time.

M'ADOO SOUGHT AS SPEAKER FOR RALLY

Efforts were being made today by a committee of well known prohibition workers to secure William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury and well known Democratic leader, as the principal speaker for a pre-election rally, to be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church. The effort to bring the noted Democrat as a campaign speaker, inquiries revealed, has the endorsement of the Santa Ana Ministerial association, the church brotherhoods and the Men's Community Bible class, which organizations are actively interested in the defeat of Amendment No. 9, providing for the repeal of the Wright act.

S. A. Insurance Men Attend Convention

Nearly a dozen insurance agents of Santa Ana today were in attendance at the annual convention of the California Association of Insurance Agents, meeting in the Hotel Virginia, Long Beach. The following members of the Santa Ana association plan to attend the entire or part of the session: John A. Henderson, Mac O. Robbins, Lydia Fisher, Parke S. Roper, E. M. Sundquist, C. E. Prior, E. D. Holmes, W. B. Martin, C. E. Dessery and Clifford Phillips.

Football Brevities

EVANSTON, Ill.—Northwestern, for the first time this year, has resorted to secret practice. Some forty members of the purple team will depart tomorrow morning for Bloomington, where they meet Indiana Saturday.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—Thirty-four Michigan players, three coaches and two trainers leave here this afternoon for Baltimore, where they meet the Navy Saturday.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—The Illinois football squad this afternoon will retire to the Champaign Country club to rest until the coming of Pennsylvania Saturday.

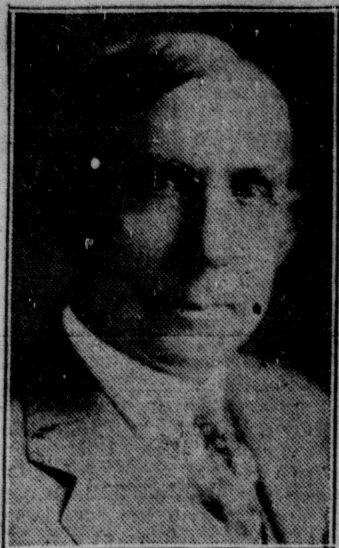

MADISON, Wis.—Several new faces appear in the Badger line and as a result the team looks to have a greatly strengthened defense that the Gophers will have to overcome if they expect to win Saturday.

MINNEAPOLIS—Another setback for Minnesota was experienced last night when Duke Johnson, 212 pound tackle, received word of the death of his brother, Duke, who will be out until the middle of next week.

ANNAPOLIS—Michigan will outweigh Navy at Baltimore Saturday by seven or eight pounds, according to E. E. Miller, one of Notre Dame's "Four Horsemen," who is coaching the Middles' line.

HANOVER, N. H.—Eddie Dooley is out of the Dartmouth lineup, having developed a badly swollen hand. The announcement increases to four the list of the regulars who will be out of the Brown game.

CANDIDATE

John W. Preston, of San Francisco, candidate for associate justice of the California supreme court.

HOUSER IN S. A. IN INTEREST OF HIS CANDIDACY

Judge Frederick W. Houser, of Los Angeles, was a visitor in Santa Ana yesterday, accompanied by Erwin P. Werner, state inheritance tax attorney.

In the interests of Judge Houser's candidacy for associate justice of the supreme court, Werner declared that aside from possessing a record of 20 years as a judicial officer, during which time no question ever has been raised as to his fairness and ability as a jurist, Judge Houser is outstanding as always, not only favoring, but actively supporting humanitarian measures and those which recognize human rights.

"It was Judge Houser, who, as an assemblyman in 1903, introduced a bill creating the office of public defender, initiating, in this state, a movement which not only has been copied by other jurisdictions and which is a long step toward giving the poor man the same chance as the rich for a fair and complete defense," Werner said.

"Judge Houser took an active part in the movement for the mothers' pension law. He devoted much time and effort to this most worthy measure.

"Before the law legalizing the placing of women on juries had been passed by the state legislature, Judge Houser, in an instance where a woman's name was drawn in court, presumably by accident, after examining the law as it read at that time, ruled that women were eligible for jury service."

Both Santa Ana Commercial league teams were successful in matches last night. The Olds Six beat the Hennis Studebakers, 4 to 1, at the Bowlers' Inn, and Livezey's Sporting Goods store defeated the First National bank at Redondo Beach, 3 to 2. The scores:

RECORD OF J. W. PRESTON TOLD BY SUPPORTER

According to Edward J. Sullivan, of Los Angeles, the group of friends urging John W. Preston, of San Francisco, to seek election to the unexpired four-year term of the late Justice Thomas J. Lennon was influenced by a higher form of selfishness than personal regard for their candidate. Sullivan declared the purpose of the group is to help in maintaining the high standards of the supreme court of the state.

"In experience as a trial lawyer and in mental and physical vigor, Preston qualifies for service in our highest court," Sullivan said. "That court needs, for the vacancy to be filled on November 2, a man of long legal training and great mental vigor. As a lawyer and as a man, the candidate fits this definition."

"For brilliant, efficient and devoted service to this country, the record of Preston as U. S. district attorney and assistant U. S. attorney general during the trying days of the World war is sufficient proof of his fitness for public office."

Pointing out that Preston has been practicing law in California for 25 years, Sullivan said that the candidate was admitted to the bar in Tennessee when 21 years of age and that he practiced in that state until he came to California, in 1902. He was a member of the assembly for the 1908-10 term and in 1913 was appointed U. S. attorney for the northern district, which position he resigned in 1915 to accept appointment as special assistant to the U. S. attorney general, for war work on the Pacific coast. He resigned the latter position in June, 1919.

Mrs. Holly Lash Visel sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Abide With Me."

Interment was made in Fairhaven cemetery.

Mr. Galbreath is survived by his widow, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Galbreath; two sisters, Mrs. E. L. Lister, of Ontario, Calif., and Mrs. H. D. Bacon, of Keller, Wn.; two sons, Virgil L. Galbreath, of Nevada, Ia., and Estel R. Galbreath, of Los Angeles; three daughters, Mrs. G. R. Fisher, of Orange; Vera L. Galbreath, and Lola Marville Galbreath; two nieces, Mrs. J. L. Klink, of Fillmore, Calif., and Miss Orie Roe, of Ontario, and two nephews in Washington. All were present at the funeral except relatives in Washington.

Other relatives from out-of-town who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Judd, of Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Judd, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Nancy Judd, of Orange.

LADIES!

Don't wave your hair daily—or even every week. Here's a way to keep it wavy for days at a time. BEFORE you use your iron, or curlers, DAMPEN the hair with DANDERINE. Just a few DROPS on comb or towel. Your locks will then behave for a MONTH! Of course, you know what Danderine does to dandruff; dissolves every speck, within five minutes of rubbing into the scalp. But as a wave-preserver on the hair itself, Danderine is a Joy. The best dressing in the world because it doesn't show. Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave.

DEVELOPMENT SECTION

SECTION TWO SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1926 PAGES SEVEN TO TWELVE

IDEAS and Ideals

Men with unlimited funds to spend have grouped themselves together under the leadership of the best brains in Southern California, for the purpose of developing the Orange county coast line. Other men in similar organizations have started operations in other parts of the county. The "men and millions movement" has apparently gotten under way in "Nature's Prolific Wonderland."

The men who have become interested in a large way in Orange county ocean frontage came here to play. They built fine homes and became enamored with the delightful situation that they wanted to share it with their friends. All other ocean frontage in Southern California is more or less cluttered up with "pikes" and entertainment features of the tawdry type. General improvements in the average beach resort are not of uniform high character. It is the intention of the large interests that have taken the matter in hand to develop the Orange county coast into the outstanding high class ocean-front property of Southern California.

Those familiar with the former activities of the men interested in the new Orange county developments are confident that the new ventures will be entirely successful. Local people and others who have closely followed developments during recent years in the territory adjacent to Los Angeles are arranging their affairs to participate in a general forward movement in Orange county.

Those who have observed events in and about Los Angeles know that it is absolutely necessary to open up new territory. During recent years, new people have been coming into Los Angeles at the rate of 20,000 per month. Southern California must absorb population in tremendous volume. Available territory for the building of housing accommodations in the Los Angeles district is virtually exhausted. The country between Los Angeles and the ocean has been thoroughly exploited. Virtually all acreage north and west of the great city has been long since subdivided and sold. The last of the good land east of Los Angeles is now being put on the market in the form of residential lots and small ranches. Operators who have had a hand in the building of Los Angeles agree that Orange county is now the logical field for present and future expansion. The large operators will be followed into the Orange county field by the investors and small operators who have followed them through the developments in recent years. It is the opinion of observers that the flood of incoming population will be turned into Orange county until the absorption point is reached here.

BEANS THRIVE IN RICH SOIL OF DISTRICT SOUTH OF S. A.

High Average of 30 Sacks Per Acre Is Recorded by Ranchers of Talbert

INCREASE NOTED IN LAND VALUES

Artesia Springs Credited With Bringing Settlers; 2 Schools in Community

Fertile land and an adequate supply are combining to make the section around Talbert, located nine miles southwest of Santa Ana, one of the important dairying and truck gardening regions in Orange county.

Five dairies are being operated and there is a possibility that others will be started by the first of the year.

Since Sam Talbert came to the section now known by the family name, farming has been the chief occupation. In 1895, Sam Talbert settled in the rich valley between the Huntington Beach mesa and the Fairview mesa. Tom Talbert and Henry Talbert, his brothers, came in soon afterwards. Most of the promotion of the section was carried on by the Talberts and so it was that the citizens of the community in selecting a post-office name, chose Talbert.

Sam Talbert is still one of the principal land holders in the district.

The population has grown to about 1000 people. A $35,000 grammar school was built in 1923. The Japanese children have a school and mission of their own. Another public building is the South Methodist church, where services are held each Sunday by the Rev. Malory Flanagan.

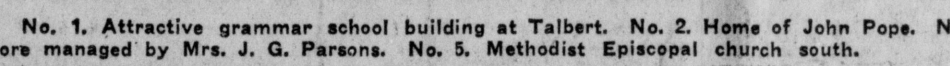

The rich soil in the region around Talbert has favored bean cultivation. The average production is about 15 sacks an acre but the crop at Talbert this year totals 30 sacks to the acre.

Pimiento and peppers grow to better quality in this section than elsewhere, it is declared.

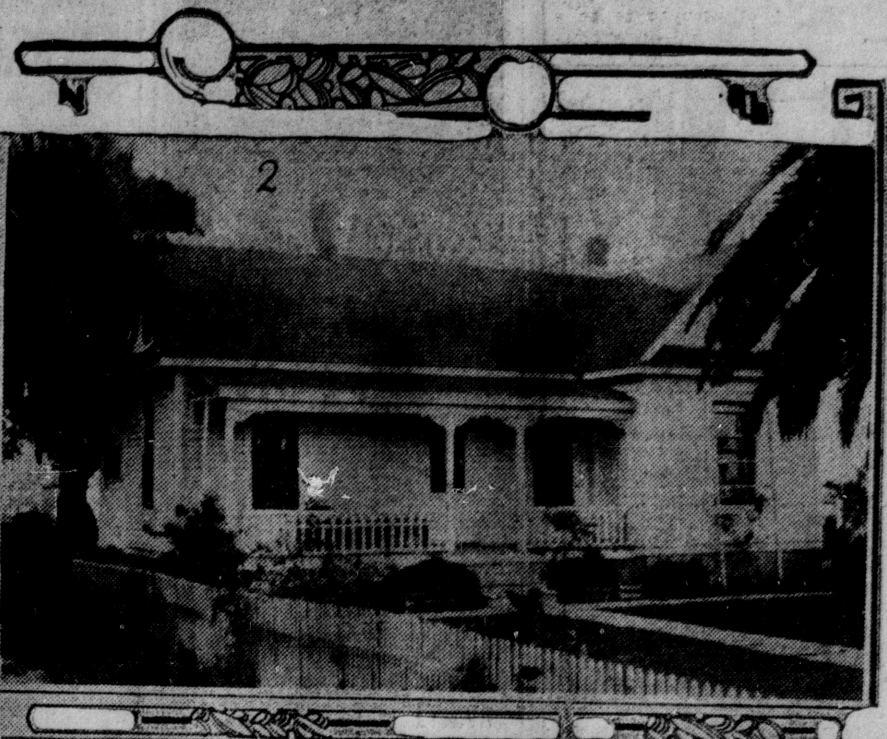

Values in land have advanced greatly. Sam Talbert can recall the time when land sold at from $12 to $40 per acre. That same land today rents for more than that and sells for $700 to $1000 an acre. Sections of Orange county along the coast have been built up since Talbert was founded. Huntington Beach, situated a distance of four miles from Talbert, was a straggling hamlet in 1895 with three houses known then by the name of Pacific City.

In early history the Talbert district was known as Fountain valley because of the artesian

BEACH WATER SYSTEM WILL BE FINISHED IN 6 MONTHS

S. F. Company Preparing To Deliver 43,000 Feet Of Gunite Covered Pipe

WAREHOUSE WILL BE ATTRACTIVE

Trenching Operations Inaugurated on Highway; Irvine Firm Co-operating

Brand new machinery was put into motion this week by the H. W. Rohl company, of San Francisco, to start the main line contract for the Laguna Beach water system. Within six months the water that is to make Laguna Beach famous for its hillside gardens, as well as its beauty of coast line and trees and the color of the ocean off its shores, that is to give it a new birth and increased population, will be flowing into its great storage tanks and through its new distribution system to its homes. That water will find its way through one of the best water systems in the United States, a system that J. B. Lippincott, one of the best known of American water engineers, is taking pride in building.

Preparation over a long period of enforced waiting on the main line work has already put the water system in Laguna Beach, itself, in a fair way toward completion. The directors of the water board will be ready to deliver water to consumers as soon as the main line begins to bring in the supply.

Economy Practiced

Engineers who have seen the plans and know the difficulties in the way of the water district, declare that Laguna Beach will have a $1,000,000 system for the $600,000 provided under the bond issue. The board aims to come within the latter figure, too. In order to build such a system for the amount of money provided, every economy had to be practiced and a trip over the system shows the elaborate plans being made to lay the main line pipe with the least amount of expense.

While the trenching machine is getting a good start on the highway right-of-way, the Cement Gun Construction company, of San Francisco, is preparing to deliver 43,000 feet of 30-inch welded steel pipe, coated with gunite, to the trenches. On a 10-acre tract in Costa Mesa that borders the railroad track, officials of the company have built four huge racks, each 400 feet long that run out from a platform built along side of the track. Up in Berkeley, the Steel Pipe and Tank company is turning out the sheet steel that will be welded into 23-foot "cans." Some of this pipe already has been loaded on flat cars and is being hauled to the Costa Mesa plant.

In Los Angeles, the Western Pipe and Steel company is manufacturing the concrete pipe that will be used on about 30,000 feet of the line.

SANTA ANA APARTMENTS TRADED FOR CITRUS GROVE

Realty transactions involving Orange and Santa Ana property have been closed by the Will A. Martin company. N. T. Edwards, state highway commissioner, disposed of a 12-acre citrus grove in Santa Ana canyon valued at approximately $42,000 to F. A. McFarren, of Santa Ana. McFarren traded his four-family apartment building at Walnut and Orange streets, Santa Ana, valued at $20,000, as part payment of the deal, with the balance paid in cash.

The citrus grove is said to be of 15-year-old valencias and an excellent producer. A. W. Swayze, a member of the Will Martin company, and Asa Hoffman, Santa Ana dealer, assisted in the completion of the deal.

Ernest Denninger has exchanged his home at 261 North Cambridge street, Orange, for rental property in Long Beach owned by Mrs. In Long Beach owned by Mrs. Cherry, of Watts. The local property is said to be valued at $7000, while the Long Beach property is valued at $9000. The Martin company negotiated the deal.

POSTPONE BUILDERS' EXCHANGE MEETING

Postponement of the monthly dinner meeting of the Orange County Builders' exchange was announced today by Elmer Schaniel, secretary-manager of the organization. The fact that the election falls on the meeting date of the organization caused the postponement.

It is doubtful if the organization will meet until December 7, according to Schaniel.

The building code drafted by Mark Cohn at the request of the exchange will be ready for submission to the city trustees of Santa Ana next Monday night, it is believed. A few changes desired by the exchange members are now being made by Cohn.

Gunfire Causes Serious Damage

SHANGHAI, Oct. 28.—Foreign refugees from Manchang report that enormous damage has been caused by gunfire and looting, as a result of the Chinese civil war, and it will take five years before restoration of the devastated areas can be completed. Another Cantonese offensive was imminent today. Wusueh, 130 miles below Hankow, reported that the Cantonese were retreating to Hankow.

U. S. Sold "Ft. Blunder"

Fort Montgomery and its 600-acre reservation on Lake Champlain was sold at public auction Sept. 16th. It was purchased in 1812 and was nearly completed before the government woke up to the fact that it was building a fortification on foreign territory. But the British government enjoys a good joke and agreed to change the American-Canadian boundary line in a way to save us many embarrassing complications. This is the reason why the fort for a long time was called "Ft. Blunder."

Bert Cozad

Nineteen years ago, when Bert Cozad came to work in this mill, wood-working machinery was not so efficiently or so thoroughly guarded as it is nowadays. Then it was not at all unusual for the operators of fast moving, keen edged saws and knives to have one or more fingers cut off. It is a tribute to Mr. Cozad's efficiency and caution that there has never suffered any serious injury to his hands. Mr. Cozad is one of the men who will fill your order when you come to our lumber yard.

Mr. Cozad is one of the nine men who have served in our organization for more than 15 years. Next week we shall introduce George E. Hatfield.

Mrs. Scott of the John Muir school was in our office today with an order for some special shavings—nice curly ones. A rather unusual order, but we were able to fill it.

Roy Stewart and Bessie Love in a scene from "Sundown," current attraction at the West End theater.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

The most elaborate settings imaginable were constructed for "Meet the Prince," Joseph Schildkraut's latest picture which is showing at the Yost Broadway theater. Joseph Schildkraut, Marguerite De La Motte, Vera Steadman, Julia Faye and David Butler are featured.

One of the sets is a replica of the reception room of the Grand Duke's palace at Petrograd, Russia, and it occupied the greater part of an immense stage. In order to faithfully reproduce the architectural splendor of this single room, Metropolitan Pictures corporation employed the best research architects obtainable in the film capital.

"Meet the Prince," is an adaptation of Frank R. Adams' story "The American Sex," which appeared in a recent issue of Munsey's magazine.

Joseph Schildkraut plays the role of a Russian prince who is reduced to poverty following the revolution. He comes to America with his sister and seeks employment as a butler in the home of a millionaire oil man. Through a series of adventures, humorous and romantic, he finds love and happiness. The picture is said to be dramatic, thrilling and appealing.

WEST COAST-WALKER

The effect of a motion picture on the minds of the nation is a result not always calculated or even considered by a producer.

Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures corporation, is one, however, who first calculates and then makes his picture. For this reason he has ordered his directors to concentrate on comedy.

"Poker Faces," the feature at the West Coast-Walker theater, bears out this edict and proves that Harry Pollard is an apt soldier. He has directed in this one of the fastest and most amusing comedies of the season.

Laura La Plante and Edward Everett Horton co-star in this and the combination of the Pollard-Horton-La Plante touches gives a delightful comedy on the joys (?) of married life.

"Way Watts' Halloween party" is primarily a conglomeration of fun. Every imaginable stunt applicable for a real Halloween celebration is being employed and the assurance of a mirth-frolic is given. Co-operation by all departments of the West Coast-Walker theater, from the decoration of the lobby and front of the house, and the building of special stage settings, to the arrangement of an unexcelled program of laughs, has gone to the development of the snappiest fun-show ever shown in Santa Ana.

In addition to the many "gags" arranged, Fanchon and Marco have secured several comedy entertainers to further the amusement. Included in the line up are Helen and Frank, Easton and Fox, Jimmy Edwards, Three Comedies, and the Van Sisters all artists of humor.

YOST THEATER

Conway Tearle, that most popular of screen lovers, scores a most palpable personal triumph in "The Sporting Lover," which was shown for the first time last night at the Yost theater.

Tearle is a most gratifying actor at all times, and in "The Sporting Lover" he goes beyond himself. Barbara Bedford, who plays opposite him, shows stellar qualities in her delineation of a most difficult role. Miss Bedford has been appearing to better advantage in every new picture that she makes. We predict that she will be elevated to stardom within a very short period. Tearle is seen in the role of Captain Terence Connaughton, an Irish officer home from the front to check up on the castle and the many mortgages he has inherited from his ancestors.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

ADVERTISING MEN HEAR PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—American business is being taught that the only method for permanent success lies in honest, faithful conscientious service to the public, according to President Coolidge.

In his last speech before the congressional elections, the president here, last night, told the American Association of Advertising Agencies that wages now are high, while profits are moderate, bringing a prosperity which is going more and more "into the homes and less into the enrichment of the few."

Mr. Coolidge did not refer to the election Tuesday, except to criticize citizens for their indifference to public affairs.

He reviewed accomplishments of his administration, emphasizing tax reductions, business prosperity, wage increases and improved living conditions.

"If we proceed under our present system," the president said, "there would appear to be little reason to doubt that we can continue to maintain all of these high standards in wages, in output, and in consumption indefinitely, and with our home markets as a foundation, increase our foreign commerce by a greater exchange of those commodities in which we are peculiarly favored for the commodities of other nations in which they have a special advantage."

"But nothing would appear to be plainer than that this depends upon the maintenance of our American scale of wages, which is the main support of our home market."

TEACHERS OF COLLEGE FAVOR 'FEDERAL' PLAN WORKMAN WITH CIRCUS IS PAID COMPENSATION

Not only does the faculty of Santa Ana junior college refuse to follow the advice of three Los Angeles teachers, who, according to the college faculty, "presume to speak for the teachers of Southern California," but they have issued a statement taking the opposite view from that promulgated by the Los Angeles teachers.

The Los Angeles committee called on teachers of Southern California to vote yes on amendment No. 20 and no on No. 28. The faculty members of the Santa Ana junior college emphatically declare that they will vote no on No. 20 and yes on No. 28, and in making this declaration D. K. Hammond, principal of the junior college, has been delegated by the faculty to speak for them, which he has done in the following statement:

Resolution of Faculty
"Since a circular has been sent out to all teachers of Southern California over the names of a committee of three Los Angeles teachers, instructing teachers how to vote on certain measures at the coming election,

"And, since this committee of three Los Angeles teachers presumes to speak for all the teachers of Southern California,

"And, since this committee makes recommendations on purely political questions as well as strictly educational measures,

"And, since this committee of Los Angeles teachers urges the teachers of Southern California to vote 'yes' on No. 20, the Los Angeles plan for legislative reapportionment, and to vote 'no' on No. 28, the federal plan for legislative apportionment,

"Therefore, be it resolved, by the teachers of the Santa Ana junior college, that we recommend to the teachers of Santa Ana that they vote 'no' on No. 20 and 'yes' on No. 28, and submit the following reasons:

Reasons for Position Stated
"1. This committee of Los Angeles teachers says that No. 28 does not preserve the principle of representation on the basis of population. This is not true. It does preserve the principle and right of representation on the basis of population, just as much as the constitution of the United States, for it provides representation in one house of the legislature on the basis of territorial districts with

While the Sells-Folto circus was showing in San Francisco recently, Frank Lamar was injured in the course of his employment with the show.

Lamar filed with the industrial accident commission, on October 6, an application for compensation for his injury, but the circus had left the city on its first round of the cities of the state. After considerable difficulty, the commission secured service on the owners of the circus in Santa Ana, requiring and obtaining the posting of a bond for the payment of compensation to the injured workman.

When the case was tried before the commission on October 15, an award was issued and promptly was paid by the circus management. The promptness of Lamar in reporting his injury and the somewhat strenuous activity of the Los Angeles office of the industrial accident commission in securing service saved this injured workman from being deprived of his rights under the California workmen's compensation act, says the commission. Once out of the state, the circus would have been beyond the reach of the commission's process servers and would have escaped payment of Lamar's just claim for compensation.

equal representation from each district.

"2. The plan proposed in No. 28 has worked successfully for 137 years in the U. S. government and there is not now, and never has been, any demand to have it changed.

"3. The plan of No. 28 is now working successfully in 23 states, including such states as New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Ohio.

"4. No. 20, the Los Angeles plan, has not been, and is not now, working successfully in states that have great cities or populous centers that dominate the state.

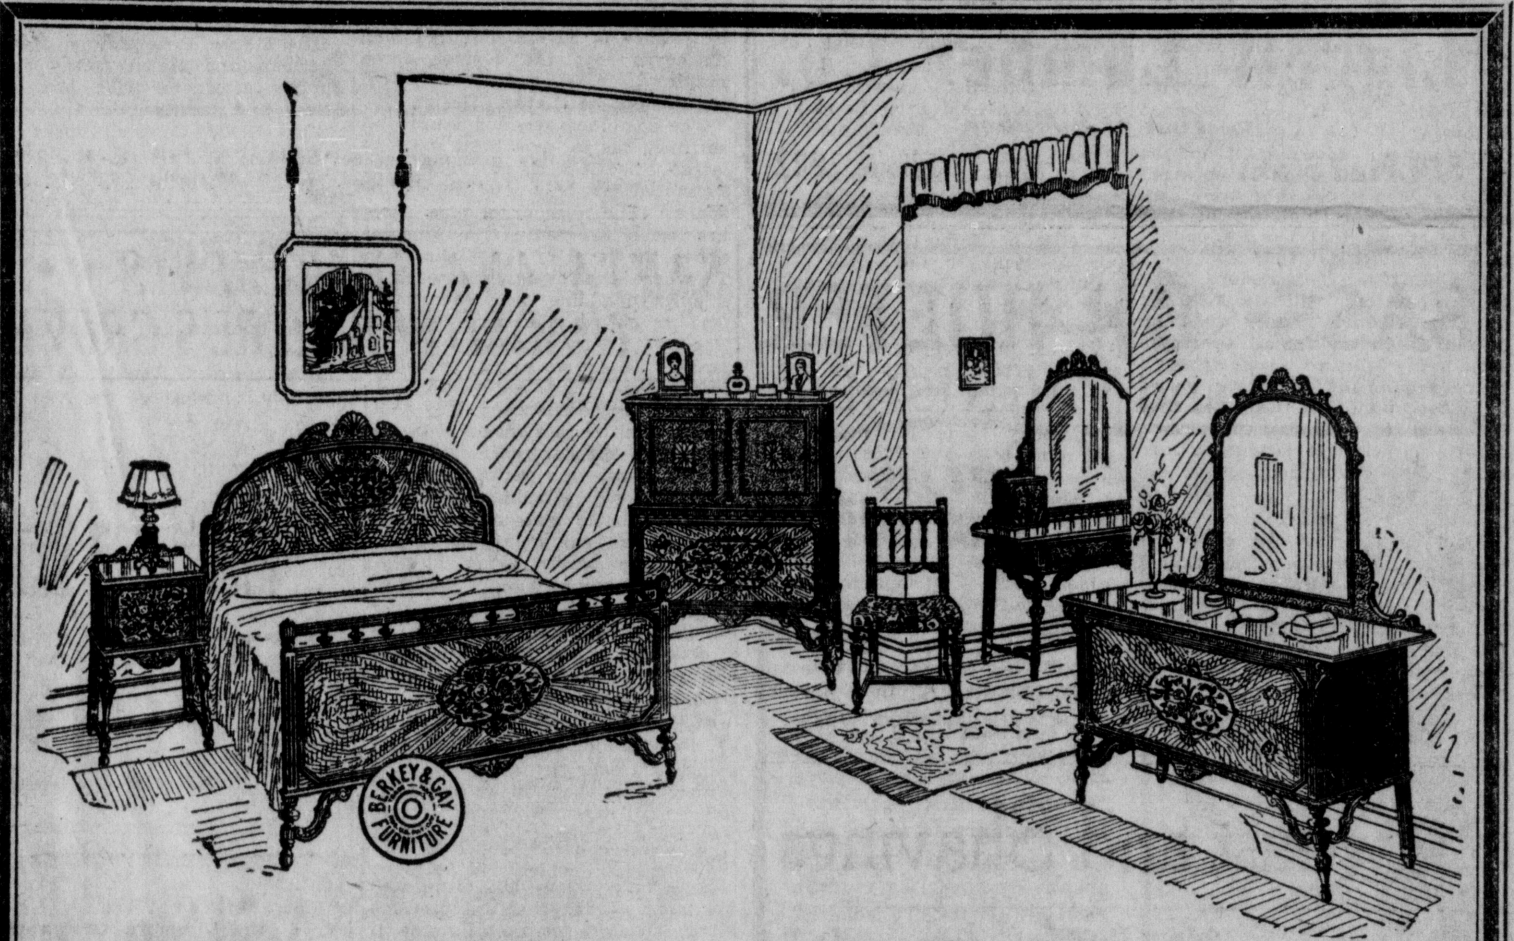

"5. No. 23 proposes the most successful plan known whereby the fundamental principle of representative government is preserved in such a form as to guarantee the rights of the majority and at the same time protect the rights of the minority.

"6. In our judgment, the plan proposed in No. 28 will best provide for the welfare of the entire state."

BEACH WATER SYSTEM READY IN 6 MONTHS

elsewhere have shown that steel pipe protected with a coating of a concrete mixture, known as gunite, will outlast pipe that is laid uncovered in the trench. Engineers from all over the state made further tests in Laguna Beach several months ago to see if the gunite coating would remain uncracked on 30-inch pipe under heavy pressure. The tests were satisfactory and it was agreed that the force mains for the Laguna Beach system should be covered.

Consequently, when the steel pipe arrives from Berkeley, it will be unloaded on the platform at Costa Mesa and rolled to the racks where two huge cement guns will coat it. After the spraying with the concrete, the pipe will be rolled further along for curing. It will be kept sprinkled for a long period until it thoroughly hardens. It then will be rolled onto trucks and transported to the trenches. After the pipe joints have been welded together in the trenches, a portable cement gun will coat over the joints, thus making one solid, concrete-coated steel pipe for the entire 43,000 feet.

Fills Hinder Work

On account of the many cuts and fills on the Coast highway between Corona del Mar and Laguna Beach, the engineers and contractors will experience some difficulty with the trenching. In some cases cradling will be necessary to properly support the pipe. The Irvine company is giving every assistance possible and the engineers have not been obliged to stick closely to the highway right-of-way.

O. T. Moore, of Santa Ana, is completing the houses for the wells and the pumping plant of the system and the building of two aeration tanks.

The pump house will have a concrete wall about four feet high to guard against floods and the superstructure will be of frame construction with a stucco finish. The pump house is 18 by 44 feet and will have bases for two booster pumps and two 100 h. p. electric motors. Each pump will have a capacity of 900 gallons per minute. The discharge from each pump will go into an eight-inch pipe and the two discharge pipes will connect on a Y with a 16-inch force main, which will, after a distance of several hundred feet, discharge into the 30-inch force main.

Tanks of Latest Design
The combined aeration tanks and settling basins are built on the latest scientific plans. They are separated by only a few feet of space. The discharge pipe from the wells is carried to a point above the level of the tanks on a T, where the pipe separates into a sprinkling line over each tank. One or both tanks may be used. The water is sprayed into the tanks. This aerates it, freeing it from gases. The water falls into the settling basin, where any sediment falls to the bottom. In the center of each tank is a well. The discharge to the pumps is from this well, which is high enough to keep the sediment out. At the top of each tank a spillway is provided, the water going into an overflow chamber, from which it is carried away.

Plan Artistic Warehouse
Built on plans made by Lewis Gerbl of the Lippincott force, the warehouse of the water system in Laguna Beach has been completed. It is located at Third street and Forest avenue, 25 by 50 feet, and has a stucco finish. The permanent office building will be started shortly directly on the corner of the water board property. The warehouse, in which will be stored the meters and fittings, will have a finish like that of the chamber of commerce building and will not be an eyesore. It was built from lumber left over after the big reservoirs were built and was obtained from the contractor at less than half price, a big saving to the water district.

an immense volume of detail in a general survey to determine the feasibility of the dam. County supervisors are looking forward with keen interest to the time when they will have an opportunity of placing this great water conservation project before the voters of Orange county. In view of the extraordinary developments which are believed to be starting in the county, it is felt that the Prado dam, and other proposed water development and conservation projects, are issues of the utmost importance.

Appeal Issued For Wright Law Support

R. C. Smedley, secretary of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. today issued the following appeal:

"Will you help support the Wright law for prohibition enforcement?"

"Will you use your automobile on Tuesday afternoon to get dry voters to the polls? Telephone your name to the Y. M. C. A. Phone 96.

"Will you vote early yourself, and encourage other good citizens to do the same?"

"If you know of shut-in voters or others who may not be able to get to the polls alone, will you notify phone 96, so that they may be called for?"

"The assistance of all good citizens is solicited in the effort to save the Wright law (No. 9) and defeat race track gambling, (No. 6)."

BEANS THRIVE IN TALBERT DISTRICT

springs, some of which are still flowing.

The presence of the artesian springs first drew attention to the possibilities of the district. Orange county had a "lean year" in 1895 and the cattle in the inland sections were dying by the hundreds because of the dry weather. Herds were driven from the O'Neill and Foster ranches, near San Juan Capistrano, to Peralta valley.

Some of the settlers who took up land in the early days are still active ranch holders. Among these besides Sam Talbert, are John Pope, Mrs. Nimock Bruer and the Bushard brothers, George, William and Louis.

A drainage district was early formed to prepare the land for cultivation and $20,000 was voted. Later, a river protection district was created with Newport and $185,000 voted to define the bed of the Santa Ana river.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"
Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug-store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.—Adv.

CLAIM ELLIOTT VICTORY HOPES LOOM BRIGHTER

"Although California normally is a strong Republican state, John B. Elliott, Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, is receiving a great deal of unexpected support," said I. G. Lewis, one of his newspaper friends, who is touring the state in Elliott's interests and who was a Santa Ana visitor.

"It is difficult to see where Senator Shortridge will be able to increase his vote materially over the total he received in the primaries. He came near to polling the full reactionary vote in the state and, unless he can shift his lineup some way, he cannot increase this vote much, if any. On the other hand, the situation is full of possibilities in several directions for the Democratic, dry, progressive candidate, John B. Elliott, to acquire large blocks of votes," Lewis said.

Shortridge Polled 340,000
"Out of a total registration of 1,350,000, Senator Shortridge polled, in the Republican primary, approximately 340,000. Mr. Clarke (Progressive Republican candidate) polled in the Republican primaries about 240,000. Mr. Lineberger (dry Republican candidate) polled about 130,000.

"There were cast about 130,000 votes in the Democratic primary, in which Elliott received a majority of approximately 26,000 over Dockweiler. It is estimated that 150,000 progressive voters registered in the Republican primary in order to take part in the Republican primary. The total vote cast of all parties in the primaries was close to 850,000, leaving nearly one million voters who did not vote in the primaries.

"In the November election, Elliott should get practically all the total Democratic registration of 400,000. The defections on account of the primary campaign will not be numerous in the Democratic ranks. The vote received by Lineberger in the Republican primary is strictly a dry vote and Elliott should get most of this vote, as against Shortridge. The vote received by Clarke was largely progressive and Elliott should receive the larger part of this vote, as against Shortridge, who is a pronounced reactionary.

150,000 "Volstead Voters"

"There also were registered approximately 150,000 voters who declined to give their party affiliations and who, therefore, cast no vote in the primary, but who will vote in November. Obviously these 'unaffiliated voters' are not strong Republicans, else they would have so registered and taken part in the spirited Republican primary fight. Many of them are Democrats; practically all of them are inclined toward the progressive side of politics, according to past experience in this state.

"Of the nearly one million voters who did not vote in the primaries, it must be assumed that they are not strongly attached to the Republican party, else they would have taken the trouble to vote in the very hot fight in the Republican primary.

"Elliott will get most of these, for he is making an aggressive campaign and is standing squarely for progressive issues in every particular."

Elect Young Governor

Orange County voters on Tuesday, November 2, are to have an opportunity to express their confidence in C. C. Young, Republican nominee for Governor.

Mr. Young should receive this county's unqualified approval. He stands for the things that are for the best in the life of Orange county. Morally, he is right. As an energetic leader in political thought he has always had our admiration.

Mr. Young is a champion of the Boulder dam. It was upon that issue that many thousands voted for him in August, and it is upon that issue that all of the voters in this county should vote for him on November 2.

I refer you for a moment to Mr. Young's splendid record as a legislator and in political thought in this state. He served as assemblyman, then as speaker of the Assembly, then as Lieutenant Governor, and he was then given the Republican nomination for Governor.

He is a forceful, sincere man, thoroughly equipped by training, experience, morals and temperament to lead this great state. We are indeed fortunate in that we have a man like Mr. Young holding the prominent position he does in our political life.

Just suppose you are the typical resident, or about-to-be resident of Southern California.

First, you are looking for an ideal location, where you and your children can enjoy the best of social and cultural environments.

Second, you want the IDEAL CLIMATE, near the hills but close to beach playgrounds, and daily enjoy the ocean breezes.

Third, you want to have good schools, good churches, good neighbors, good roads, city conveniences, but with plenty of room.

Fourth, while looking to the future, you also want an immediate income from your investment, CERTAINTY of returns as opposed to SPECULATION.

You want REAL VALUE PLUS in making your investment, plus generous terms.

All these things and more you will find at the David Hewes ranch, a beautiful 675-acre citrus property, now being sold in small parcels to close an estate.

Full bearing oranges and lemons, priced PER ACRE at less than ordinary city lots.

Ideal soil for the culture of avocados, the wonder fruit. Your citrus trees, with Sunkist marketing system, will furnish you an immediate return from your investment. You can intercrop with avocados and enjoy dividends from your grove while the new trees are maturing.

There is an unlimited water supply, a complete ranch organization to care for your grove until you can build and live upon it yourself and all the facilities for enjoying Southern California country life near the city, at its best—and AT A PROFIT.

The David Hewes estate is located three miles east of Orange, in the frostless foothill district of Orange county, and is quickly reached from all points over paved boulevards. The values will surprise you, and you will bless the day that led you to this superb investment.

Drive out today and see for yourself the splendid opportunity which awaits your choice. No high-pressure salesmen—just an honest-to-goodness proposition, and we'll be glad to answer all questions.

PLAYING STRENGTH

Discussion as to the relative merits of the two major leagues will continue as long as baseball is played.

The partisan National League reason will offer you a score of reasons why the senior organization is the superior. The American League supporter will present just as many in rebuttal.

As a matter of fact there is little or no difference between the playing strength of the two big leagues.

One year it may seem as if the pendulum had swung slightly in favor of the National. The next year it may appear as if the American has a scant edge.

Since both leagues recruit the players from the same sources, it is easy to see why the standard should always remain much the same.

SERIES' PROOF

Perhaps the last three world series offer the most convincing proof as to the equality of standards in the majors.

In each instance the series went the limit, seven games, the winner being decided because of some lucky break rather than marked superiority of play.

In 1924, Washington beat the New York Giants because two balls bounded over Third Baseman Lindstrom's head, just as he was about to make a play for what seemed certain outs.

The following year fault play by Peckinpaugh at short, coupled with the fact that the Washington fielders lost several fly balls in the murky atmosphere, sent Pittsburgh home the winner.

In the series of this year, two errors at a critical spot gave St. Louis three runs, just enough to win the deciding game by a one-run margin.

Each series was a thrill to the very finish.

Last Rites Held
For Harry Greb,
Late Ring King

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 28.—Harry Greb, former middleweight boxing champion, was buried here yesterday.

Long before the hour set for the funeral procession to start from the home of his sister, Mrs. Ida Edwards, great throngs had gathered in the streets to pay last tribute to the fighter.

Headed by a police escort and the American Legion post of which Greb was a member, the procession moved to St. Philomena's Catholic church, where a solemn funeral mass was celebrated.

Among active pall bearers were Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion of the world, and James Mason, Greb's former manager.

DEMPSEY LEAVES MONDAY FOR PACIFIC COAST; WILL COMMENCE TRAINING FOR RETURN FIGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Jack Dempsey will leave for the Pacific Coast Monday to start the hard work he intends to travel in an effort to regain the world heavyweight title he lost to Gene Tunney in Philadelphia last month.

Dempsey and his wife, Estelle Taylor, had lunch with Tex Rickard, promoter, yesterday. It was the last conference the two expect to have on fight matters for some months, Rickard said.

Dempsey expressed confidence he could get back in shape, Rickard said. As outlined by Rickard, the former champion's plans include a rigorous period of training, to be followed by several real fights, then a challenge to Tunney.

Dempsey is willing to take on an indoor bout early in the spring if he finds he is in shape to fight, Rickard said. The whole matter, he added, rests with Dempsey, who wants to be certain he can return to his old form. If he finds his former fighting power has gone for good, Dempsey intends to leave the ring. Until he hears from Dempsey definitely about his return to shape, no more discussions of a fight will be held, Rickard said.

Rickard said he believed Dempsey would be willing to meet Paul Berlenbach in Madison Square Garden here next year and that Berlenbach was willing. Rickard also quoted Dempsey as saying he believed Harry Persson, the Swedish fighter, was the best of the present crop of young heavies.

POETS TO MEET ARIZONA

WHITTIER, Oct. 28.—Coach Leo Calland will take 24 men to Tucson where the Whittier Poets clash with the University of Arizona Saturday. Arizona will be favored to win because of its record and because of the injury to Tom Denny, diminutive Whittier quarterback, which will keep him watching the game from the sidelines.

COUNTY TITLE
STAKE IN GAME
AT FULLERTON

Tomorrow's Games
Huntington Beach at Fullerton.
Garden Grove at Brea.
Tustin at Anaheim.
Orange bye.

Interest of Orange county's football populace will center about the Huntington Beach-Fullerton contest at Fullerton tomorrow afternoon. The game will decide the championship of the county league pennant race—if Fullerton wins. If Huntington Beach triumphs a three cornered tie between Huntington Beach, Anaheim and Fullerton will result.

The game should be one full of thrills. Fullerton has the strength to win but Huntington Beach uncorked a sensational brand of ball last week when Coach Harry Sheue's squad trampled the fighting Brea aggregation to the tune of 55 to 0. This score was the largest yet rolled up by county league team and gave the backers of the Huntington Beach team a lot of hope. Fullerton whipped Tustin, 44 to 0, early in the season; Brea then trounced Tustin 13 to 6, so that if a comparison is to be gained in this manner the beach squad looks capable of winning.

On the other hand, Huntington Beach lost to Anaheim, 7 to 0, and Fullerton won from Anaheim, 10 to 2. It was said, however, that Anaheim outplayed the Indians from start to finish. Huntington Beach is also reported to have outplayed Anaheim in the Mother Colony tiff. Both Fullerton and Huntington Beach are scrappy aggregations and it is probable the team that gets the breaks will triumph.

Garden Grove will travel to Brea for what should be an interesting game, the two teams being apparently evenly matched. They will fight it out to see which team keeps fifth place in the league. Brea is at present sitting well up in the league standing, but the youngest school in the county faces a tough schedule for the rest of the season and will play Fullerton and Anaheim after the Garden Grove fracas.

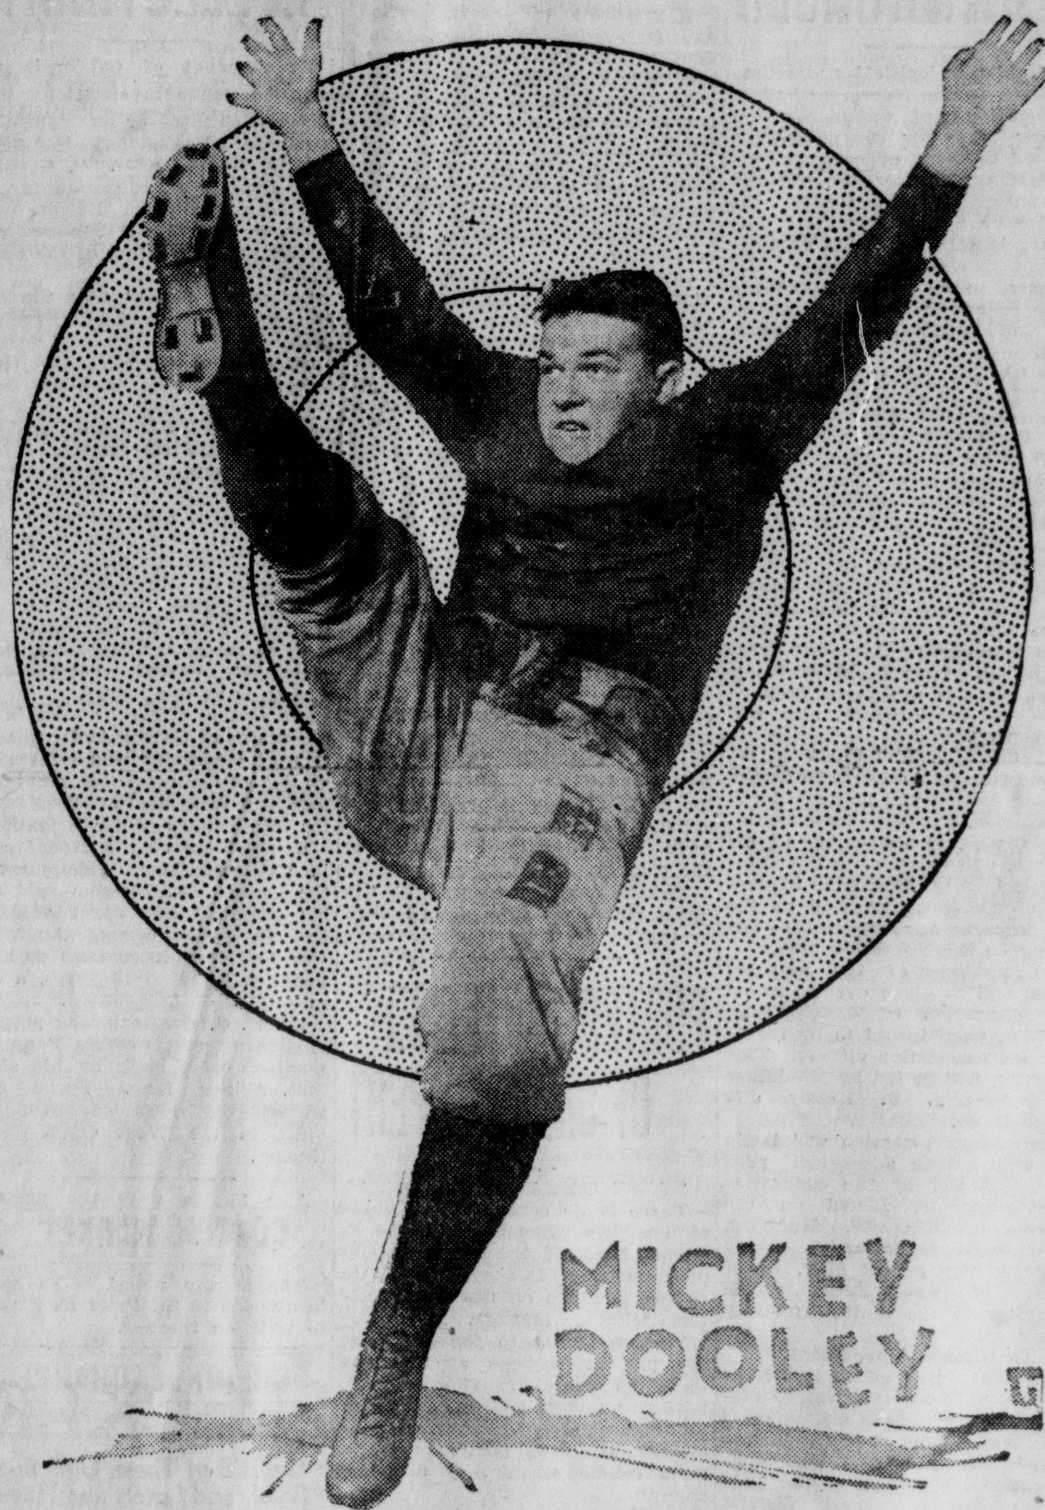

Tustin, with a weak team which has not won a game this fall, will play at Anaheim tomorrow. The game should be a walkaway for the Anaheim boys. What regulars the Tustin team did have at the start of the season are now in the hospital list. Coach Clyde Cook has been handicapped by a lack of interest in the sport and has had few men turn out for practice during the past few weeks and will probably use most of the 130-pound team. Anaheim has suffered only one reversal during the campaign.

Orange draws a bye.

WARNER'S CARDINALS LEAVE STANFORD TONIGHT; TEAM TO MAKE QUARTERS AT PASADENA

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 28.—Stanford university's 1926 football edition, led by the foxy "Pop" Warner, leaves Palo Alto tonight and is scheduled to arrive in Pasadena tomorrow morning where it will remain until shortly before starting time of the game Saturday with the University of Southern California at the Coliseum.

In the Cardinal party will be some 46 players, with all of the regulars in excellent condition for the meeting that will probably settle the Pacific Coast conference championship and may disclose the western entry to the annual Tournament to Roses New Year's battle at Pasadena.

Both coaches, Warner and Jones, put their charges through secret workouts yesterday.

At Bovard field the Spartans, using Cardinal plays, scrimmaged against the regulars for a short time after which Jones turned to drilling the Herd on plays he has worked up for the special benefit of the Stanford eleven.

The Trojan squad with the exception of Drury and Jess Hibbs is in top notch shape. Drury's knee has not mended as quickly as expected and there is some doubt as to his ability to play Saturday. Coach Jones does not expect to start him and according to the present plan will draft him into service only if the tide of battle turns against the Southern California entry.

During practice yesterday, Hill and Hyland worked at halves, Hoffman at full and Post at quarter. Hill and Hyland are veterans of last year's clash with the Trojans, when Stanford won. The omission of George Bogue, 195-pound fullback from the lineup does not mean he will not come into the fray at a critical stage. Bogue is one of Warner's best offensive backs.

Ederle Sues Promoter Of $36 Swim

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 28.—Gertrude Ederle, first woman swimmer to conquer the English channel, today brought suit against promoter of an exhibition swim here last month whom she alleges owes her $714.

Miss Ederle, who attracted just $36 to the box office when she swam on Avon lake, says Sheriff W. E. Robb, promoter of the match, owes her the amount as the balance due her for fulfilling her contract.

The swimmer's appearance clashed with that of Marion Talley, Metropolitan opera singer, who attracted $9000 to the local opera.

BASEBALL STARS HUNT

DETROIT, Oct. 28.—Heinie Manush, batting champion of the American league, and Harry Heilmann, last year's leader, left today for St. Paul, where they will be joined by Fitcher Paul Zahner on a hunting trip.

WE FIX almost anything. Fix It Shop, 105 E. 3rd.

Mr. Dooley of Dartmouth, sometimes called "Mickey," has certainly had his ups and downs in collegiate football. If you don't believe it—listen to this tale of woe:

After starting for Dartmouth in 1924 and being elected to the captaincy of the 1925 eleven, an accident suffered in a fall from a horse forced him to retire from college for a year.

Dartmouth then proceeded to win the 1925 championship minus the one player the coaches had banked on. The big noise at Dartmouth last year was "Swede Oberlander."

This fall Dooley, on his return to Dartmouth, finds he must fill the shoes of the great Oberlander to live up to his past reputation.

ALEX IS WELCOMED BY HOME TOWN FOLK

ST. PAUL, Neb., Oct. 28.—St. Louis may have celebrated when Grover Cleveland Alexander won the world's series for the St. Louis Cardinals but that city's affair was forgotten today by the veteran pitcher when his home town opened its celebration.

Seven fatted calves were barbecued and the boy who learned the rudiments of baseball on St. Paul vacant lots selected the choicest morsel today while 25,000 "I knew him when" friends stood by.

The celebration for Alexander was the greatest ever staged here. Forty local business men locked up their business houses.

"Welcome to Alexander the Great," streamers bedecked every city street.

TILDEN SPURNS BIG OFFER TO BE TENNIS PRO

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—William T. Tilden, for six years American national tennis champion, gave today for the first time his attitude toward the professional game in an exclusive interview with the United Press.

Tilden, who was beaten in the quarter-final match of the recent National Championship tournament at Forest Hills, by Henri Cochet, one of the French "four horsemen," said he would remain an amateur for one more season, but that he wasn't certain what he would do in 1928.

He said also that he had been approached by C. C. Pyle, with an offer that doubled his previous terms to join Mlle. Lendin, Miss Mary K. Brown, Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey in the professional troupe and that he might have accepted if an American instead of Rene La Coste, had won the national championship.

Tilden was particularly eager to correct the current story that he had placed such a price on his name and services that even the generosity of Pyle could not meet it.

"In justice to myself and Mr. Pyle, I would like to have it made clear," William T. Tilden said, "that the matter of money did not restrain me from accepting his offer. If an American had won the national championship I would have considered it. But for the first time in 20 years or more a foreign player won our championship and to desert the amateur ranks at this time would have been against the ethics of the game and against my personal code of duty.

"I feel that I have a duty to a public that has supported me so faithfully for the six years in which I held the national championship and a public that did not turn against me when I was defeated.

"Considering that the prestige of American tennis, both in individual and team play, is being threatened as it has not been in years, I set aside selfish temptation and decided to remain an amateur for one more season during which I hope to have a part in restoring the American game to its proper place."

Tilden said he did not believe that he was through and he felt sure that he could get back on his game through practice and by intensive training. He said he was going back to Europe in the spring and would play in France and England.

U. S. C. FROSH READY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.—Thirty-four freshmen gridmen from the University of Southern California leave here tomorrow night for Palo Alto where on Saturday they will meet the Stanford yearlings in the battle which will determine the freshman championship of the state.

The Trojan frosh have already defeated California, 21 to 7. Saturday's game looms as a thriller. It is the last game of the season for the Trojan Babes.

OLIVER HOPES TEAM HAS HIT WINNING STRIDE

Santa Ana will make its last bid for a place in the Coast Preparatory league football sun tomorrow afternoon.

Beaten twice in as many starts in their circuit and on the verge of suffering from an inferiority complex because everything they try seems to go wrong, Coach "Tex" Oliver's Poly pigskinners travel to South Pasadena for a skirmish with a club that also has been set down on the occasion of its two league affairs.

If Santa Ana is defeated the local school will positively be out of the running for the championship. If Oliver's cohorts emerge from their lethargy long enough to properly chastise the South Pasadenans, however, there is still an outside chance for a Santa Ana title.

Has Team Hit Stride?

Santa Ana has been dubbing along for nearly the entire route of its preliminary season and even yet it is difficult to determine whether the aggregation has hit its true stride. The squad was the greenest in the history of Santa Ana football at the outset, only two or three men having had any semblance of "big time" football before this year, and it is only natural that the team has made progress slowly.

In all its games, Poly has dabbled along indifferently for three-fourths of the time but has picked out some special period to unleash an attack whose fury has borne the enemy helpless before it. In those flashes of class, Oliver's charges have shown power and speed and determination and their subsequent lack of effectiveness has baffled Oliver as well as the critics who have followed the development of the team from its beginning.

Maybe Santa Ana will find itself tomorrow. Oliver hopes so.

Tigers Good on Defense

South Pasadena will send a fine defensive crew against Poly. The Tigers lost their first two league starts, as did the locals, but they held Glendale to a 6 to 0 score and was defeated by Pasadena in the last minute of play Saturday, 3 to 0. Saturday's brawl will afford Santa Ana statisticians their first figures comparing Santa Ana and San Diego who clash here in the last imbroglio of the campaign. Glendale held San Diego to a 0 to 0 count last week, losing only in the extra period that is being used in this league to settle tie games.

South Pasadena was good enough to hold Glendale to a single touchdown so the Tigers must not be far from San Diego's class.

Oliver is still uncertain as to his starting lineup but he probably will rely on the six years in which I held the national championship and a public that did not turn against me when I was defeated.

S. A. COLLEGE GIRL COURT SQUAD LOSES

Unable to cope with the accurate basket shooting of the Misses Hetebrink and Latourette, opposing forwards, the Santa Ana junior college girls' basketball team was defeated, 29 to 13, by the Fullerton junior college girls' sextette yesterday.

Miss Thelma Patton, shifted to forward from her long favorite position at guard, scored 11 of the 13 Santa Ana points and was the individual star of the contest.

Miss Florence Treadway, local coach, has just about decided on the Misses Patton and Mary Jane Owens as forwards, Marion Stanley and Mildred Hunter as centers and Ruth Davis and Edna Backs as guards.

About 18 girls are contesting for team positions. They will not play inter-school contests but the conference institutions will meet for "play-days," engaging in all the departments of girls' sports.

The lineup:
Fullerton Pos. Santa Ana
Hetebrink (11).....F..... (11) Patton
Latourette (16).....F..... Backs
Brown.....C..... Stanley
Palmer.....G..... Stanley
Atrous.....G..... Davis
Belfield.....G..... McWaters
Substitutions: Fullerton—Dull for Brown; Shea (2) for Hetebrink. Santa Ana—Owens (2) for Backs; Hadden for Stanley.

AN AMENDMENT

Easy to understand

NUMBER 7 ON THE BALLOT provides the same rate of taxation for short line steam railroads as for electric railroads. That's all! It's FAIR. Vote YES.

These 38 little steam lines (average length 34 miles) serve sparsely settled communities. They now pay a higher tax rate than the electric lines that serve metropolitan areas. They are, in a majority of cases, unable to meet their bond interest. Many of them operate at a loss. Yet they are taxed on the same basis as the great transcontinental lines. ALL THEY WANT IS AN EVEN BREAK.

VOTE YES ON NUMBER 7

THE "SHORT LINE" AMENDMENT. Your vote will help the small communities—and the small communities buy your goods. California needs its short line roads.

Subject to change by Legislature, changes State tax on steam railroads not exceeding two hundred and fifty miles in length, operated separately and not as part of another railroad owning or operating lines exceeding such length, from seven to five and one-quarter per cent of gross receipts ascertained as provided in Constitution; if such classification violates Federal Constitution, or prejudices State's right to tax other steam railroads at different rate, taxes all steam railroads seven per cent, or percentage hereafter adopted. FAMOUS CHOIR OF 40 VOICES WHICH WILL OPEN PARENT-TEACHER CONCERT SEASON

The John Smallman A. Cappella choir, one of the five excellent artist events of the concert course offered here this season by the Santa Ana Federation of Parent-Teachers. This choir has been pronounced by eminent critics to be the equal of the world's most famous singing organizations.

PROGRAM FOR P.-T. A. SESSION IS ANNOUNCED

Discussion of legislative measures appearing on the November ballot; consideration of administration matters; plans for financing the proposed mothers' educational center; reading of officers' reports and communications will feature the pre-lection all-day meeting of the Santa Ana city federation of California Congress of Parents and Teachers, to be held next Friday in the Spurgeon Memorial church, corner of Broadway and Church street.

The meeting will be called to order at 10 a. m., by Mrs. Fay R. Spangler, president of the federation. Included among matters to be taken up in the morning session are committee reports by the chairman of the music, emblem and magazine the philanthropy departments.

Under the heading of finances, the P.-T. A. workers will discuss ways and means for financing a proposed mother's educational center in Santa Ana. A request from the Orange County Tuberculosis association for assistance in paying off its indebtedness, also will be taken up.

Cranston Will Speak
The principal address of the morning session will be made by J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools, who, in the course of his remarks, will touch upon the value of pre-school work and the kindergarten department as well as the more important amendments appearing on the November ballot.

The remainder of the morning session will be given over to round table discussion of departmental activities, participated in by federation and association officers. This discussion will be led by Mesdames Walter Fine, J. V. Kelsey and George Greer.

The afternoon session will begin at 1 o'clock with a musical program, arranged by the committee on arrangements. Listed on the program are Mrs. W. Hubbard, well known soprano, and a chorus of junior high school girls, under direction of Frances Beeson, music supervisor in the Santa Ana city schools.

To Discuss Amendments
The greater part of the afternoon program will be given over to discussion of the various amendments appearing on the ballot. Among the speakers will be Mrs. Earl Morris, national chairman of the program service and past district president; Mrs. A. A. Jones, representing the Orange county W. C. T. U.; R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools; and G. K. Scovel, representing the American Legion. In addition to these speakers there will be a representative of the Automobile Club of Southern California, who will talk upon amendments Nos. 4 and 8.

The meeting will close with reports of departmental chairmen and association presidents, showing the year's work and proposed program of work.

Ticket Demand and Support Given Undertaking Is Encouraging

The great demand for course tickets, for the series of artist musical treats which the City Federation of Parent-Teachers will present in Santa Ana this season, is encouraging to Mrs. Fay Spangler, president of the federation, and Mrs. Mary Robertson, president of the high school P.-T. A., and their many co-workers.

J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools, and D. K. Hammond, high school superintendent, are lending their support to the undertaking and the leading organizations have pledged their cooperation and patronage, it was said today.

One of the outstanding features of the course will be the appearance of the Smallman A. Cappella choir, a body of 40 trained singers, pronounced by no less an authority than the great pianist and composer, Percy Grainger, to equal, if not excel, any choral group of its kind in the country. No lover of ensemble vocal music should miss this event, which probably will open the course about the middle of November.

Other numbers on the series will be a joint recital by Charels Wakefield Cadman, America's beloved composer, and James Murray, concert baritone; the Elise Dufour interpretative dance ensemble; a song, violin and piano evening by Eleanor Woodford, dramatic soprano, Vera Barstow, violinist, and Clarence Gustlin, pianist; and Grace Wood Jess, the Raquel Meller of America, whose artistic costume folk-song recitals have been acclaimed throughout the country.

Tickets may be secured at the Santa Ana Book store, Sam Stein's or the White Cross Drug store.

PORTERS SKITTISH OF SNAKE EXPERT

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 28.—There is no scrimmage of Pullman porters when Prof. George R. Green, head of the nature study department of Pennsylvania State college, appears on the train platform with his luggage.

They are wise to the fact that the professor's bags are just as likely to contain snakes, lizards, snapping turtles and horned toads as spare shirts and socks, and the usually skittish porters steer a wide course when they see him coming.

Professor Green makes weekly trips to Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Westchester and Philadelphia to meet 350 or more school teachers taking his extension courses in nature study. He boards the same trains each week and porters have learned to know him.

In the spring of 1924 Professor Green broadcast the battle cry of a rattlesnake from the college radio station.

Aid Is Asked In Search for Man

Santa Ana police last night were asked to aid in a search for a man, whose name was given as Gonzales, who is missing from Ontario. Gonzales was employed by Galbraith and was to have delivered 210 gallons of oil in the southern city.

Descriptions of Gonzales and the truck were given officers.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Aaron Burr

Sketches by Redner
Synopsis by Braucher

In 1836 the boarding house where Burr was slowly dying, once the residence of Governor John Jay, was torn down. Burr, on a litter, was removed to a hotel at Port Richmond, Staten Island, where he lingered for several months in sight of his birthplace, Newark, and the home of his younger years, Elizabethtown.

One of the last pictures we have of Burr is the old man scratching his name with a diamond on the pane of a hotel window.

With relics of other years about him, and the memory of his two Theodosias, the old colonel slowly sank toward death.

At the age of 80, Burr died, in the afternoon of Sept. 14, 1836. It was his request that he be buried in Princeton, where lay his father and grandfather, who had been presidents of the college, and his last wish was carried out. (Next: Sam Houston)

THE TINYMITES
BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tinymites, of course, were sad. The luck they'd had was really bad. When Mister Squirrel ran away their little cart was wrecked. Said Scouty, in a wailing tone, "It's our own fault. We might have known. We made the squirrel work too hard, so what could we expect?"

Then Carpy rose and chimed right in, "Oh, shucks, let's bear our fate and grin. There is no use crying over spilt milk, so they say." Now that was very good advice. To smile, instead of frown is nice, so all the band was very glad to look at it that way.

Just then they heard a noise right near. A thumping, thumping, right clear. At first it seemed so very loud it filled them all with fright. Then Ukey looked and loudly cried, "Ah, here's our chance to get a ride," 'cause he had seen, far down the road, a horse run into sight.

The horse's hoofs, upon the ground, had made the thumping, thumping sound. He galloped down the pathway 'till he reached the Tinymites. Then Carpy said, "He looks to me like he's as friendly as can be." But Carpy added, "I don't know, I wonder if he bites."

The horse, however, bobbed his head and swished his tail, so Carpy said, "Aw, gee, come on, let's hop aboard. He's big enough for all I'll hold my hands and give a boost. Upon his back, we'll soon all roost. Be careful, now, don't slip, because it's pretty far to fall."

They scrambled on the best they could, and some sat down, while others stood up. And then they pulled very Copy up. It sure was quite a load. The horse was smart, and seemed to know the Tinymites were set to go. He started, very slowly, then went trotting down the road.

SHORT HAIR

The other day, one of my readers wrote and asked me whether short hair was still fashionable and whether it would pay her to cut off hers since it was getting thin and she thought a year of bobbing might do it good. Once I had heaps of such letters, lately hardly any. I think this must be the only long haired reader I have!

Short hair is good for a long time yet. Some people say forever, but I have found that no fashion is good forever, no matter how much may be said for it. But we are going in for youth these days—that at least will always be fashionable—and there's no doubt that for many years to come, short hair will give the impression of youth, even past middle age, just as the present slim, short skirts make a woman look young, if she hasn't got a huge figure.

So if any woman wants to bob her hair, don't let her stop because she is afraid the style is almost dead. When she must let it grow again she'll have plenty of company! And there are short hair styles now to suit every face and age. There's the short boy's cut for the thin face, the slightly shaggy Eton crop, smooth and slick like the nice little boys who first wore it at school, the shingle, which gives an outline in the like long hair neatly dressed, and allows any sort of front and side arrangement. And there's the little girl cut, which chops the hair off at an even length sides and back, and is most becoming to thin, hollow faces that need softening, as well as to all young or youthful ones.

The shingle with a middle or side parting is the most mature of all styles and best for the older woman.

Sadie G.—Contrary to your belief, diet will reduce you. If you eat less sugar and less starch you can lose many pounds each week. At 17 years of age, height five feet, two and a half inches, you are almost 25 pounds too heavy. You will undermine your health if you take drugs for reduction. CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Speed and accuracy of thought increase when you draw up your muscles, experiments recently conducted at the University of Chicago indicate. Forty students were set to work learning a series of nonsense syllables and adding columns of digits. It was found that they worked much faster while exerting a grip of 11 pounds.

ARMS SAVE HER

LONDON, Oct. 28.—In most cases, when a man has his arms around a woman and the jealous lover appears, it's a bad fix. But when Ernest Coward, 20, put his arms around the slim waist of Louisa Riley, 18, he saved her life. An unknown man fired a shotgun in their direction and Louisa was so tightly held that she wasn't hit, though George's arms were peppered.

SLENDER BODY AND POINTED JAWS

The Snake-eel

BY AUSTIN H. CLARK
Smithsonian Institution

Few fishes look stranger to us than the snake-eels with their long and slender body and their widely diverging pointed jaws.

Snake-eels are found in all the oceans down in the cool dark depths below the sunlit surface zone. Here they swim continually about, never coming to the surface and never going to the bottom.

They are occasionally found floating dead or dying on the surface, but they are very rarely caught. On one occasion, when we were dredging in deep water off the coast of south Japan, we were so fortunate as to get quite a number of them. Most of them were found clinging to the netting with which their small but numerous teeth had become entangled.

The snake-eels are all small, the one shown, which was captured in the Hawaiian Islands, being only six and three-quarter inches long. It is the only one of its kind ever found.

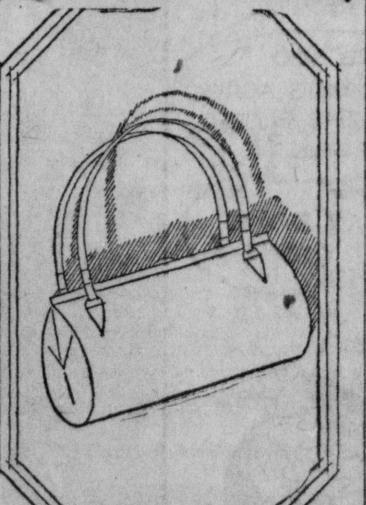

Their curious mouth, with the widely diverging jaws, seems quite unsuited to capture anything. If they did catch anything it would seem that they would have some difficulty in swallowing it through their long and thread-like neck. Yet where they live there are undoubtedly plenty of them.

Selecting New Floor Coverings

Better Grades of Rugs Prove Good Investment; Neutrality of Tone Lends Best Effect to Room

BY JAMES BLAUVELT
For NEA Service

Floors and their coverings have progressed a long way since the sixteenth century, when a carpet of rushes served to protect people's feet from the cold stone floor, and to catch all the dust and refuse of the house, growing dirtier and dirtier until the time for the periodic sweeping out and laying of new rushes.

The first purpose of carpets is to supply warmth, of course; but nowadays we expect them to add beauty and style as well as comfort to our homes.

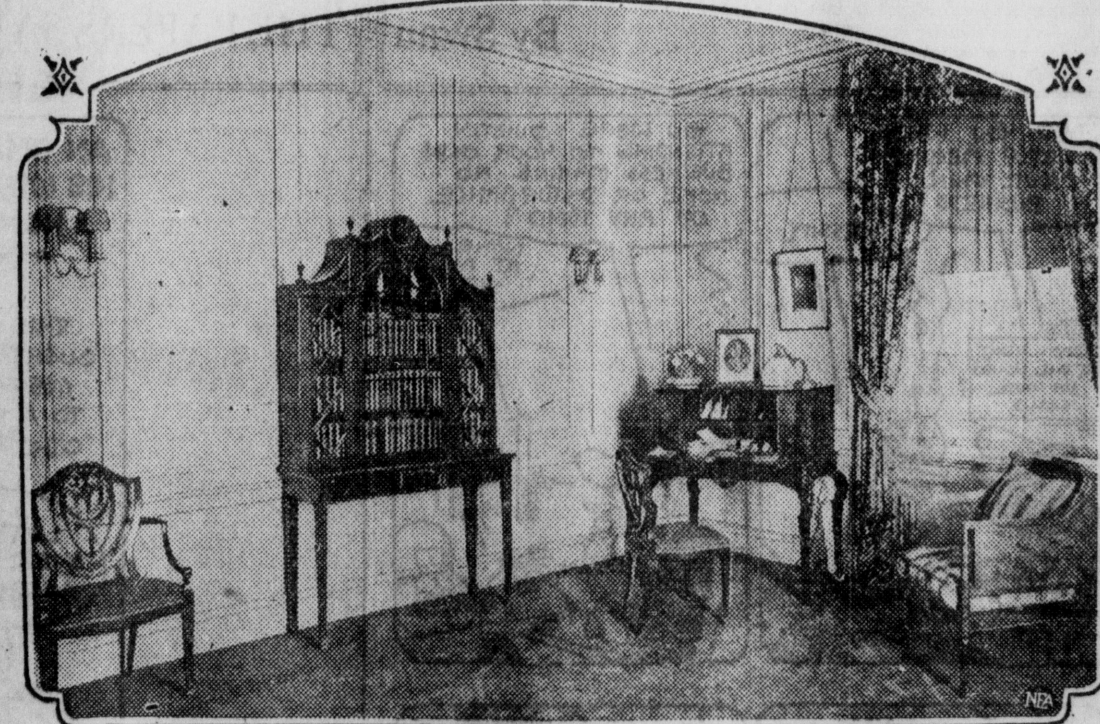

The floors themselves should be the best the home builder can buy. Oak, maple and ash are the most durable woods for floors, though pine is satisfactory and much less expensive.

Of the humble floor coverings linoleum has perhaps the most varied uses. It is unexcelled as a kitchen floor covering, and is often used in bathrooms and vestibules. More pretentious designs of linoleum are very smart for foyers and sun rooms, billiard and card rooms, giving a smooth, spacious effect to a small floor.

A Word for Orientals. Rag rugs and hook rugs, now much in vogue, are an interesting and sometimes beautiful product of the home maker's art, reflecting the early period when women of necessity made most of the fabrics used in their homes.

But these rugs cannot be compared, for beauty and artistic value, with the richer types of rugs such as those that come from the Orient.

Among floor coverings for general use are: the Aubusson and Gobelin carpets, limited by their cost to monumental houses; Argentine velvets printed in colors; the seamless Wilton, a short pile fabric of great durability; the seamless chenille carpet, and the

A W. and J. Sloane bedroom of dignity and simplicity, carpeted with a plain fabric to the baseboard, to increase the sense of spaciousness.

Axminster carpet, a yarn from the Wilton, with a high pile.

As to the pile of a rug, the general conception that a high pile indicates high quality is false. In a cheap carpet, a high pile will mat and become most unsightly. Unless you can afford the best, stick to a short, compact pile.

In redecorating your home this fall, lay out a carpet scheme as soon as the walls are finished. If you wish variety of color and pattern in the furnishings of a room, choose a plain neutral carpet. For a conspicuous carpet "does the talking" in a room, and everything else must be made subservient to its color and pattern.

Light colors in rugs are unsatisfactory, soiling easily and showing up the shadows of the furniture in a stark, unpleasant way.

As in choosing wall coverings, select warm-colored rugs for a cold north room, and cooler tints for sunny rooms.

The tat de negro or dark taupe carpet makes an especially good background for the bright evening dresses worn in a drawing room. The shape of the rugs must not compete with the architectural structure of the rooms. Long lines of rugs must run parallel to the long lines of the room. Large center medallions in carpets are difficult to handle, for they may not be placed harmoniously with the chandeliers and furniture.

To increase the size of a room, choose a plain or small-patterned carpet and cover the entire floor to the baseboard. A border of bare floor cuts down the apparent size of the floor.

Though small rugs are flexible and make housecleaning easier, they decrease the size of a room by breaking up the floor space into little islands. In the finest houses, Oriental rugs are laid here and there against a background of plain dull velvet.

A large plain carpet is useful in case you move into a new house, for it may be cut up and placed in various ways. The proper width of the border—if you have a room large enough to admit of a bare border, is from a foot to eighteen inches.

Oriental rugs are a life study in themselves, but it is useful for every home maker to know something of their main classification and qualities.

First, they are durable, and will outlast several sets of cheap domestic rugs.

Second, there are many grades of Oriental rugs. Not every Oriental rug is a fine one, though the name has become a tag for luxury in decoration.

Bagdad is the center of the rug weaving industry today. Most of its weavers are subsidized by American and European capital.

Harmony is Difficult. The commonest Orientals in this country are the Turkestan rugs, made of buffalo and horse hair. They usually have a brick red background which is hard to handle in modern home color schemes, where the rose shades of red are preferred.

The suroka rug is more modern in design and color. The kashan is a valuable rug, with a small over-all pattern, and 350 knots to the square inch—a mark of the finest rug fabrics.

However, you can expect better wear from a rug with 100 or 150 knots to the inch.

The cheaper grades of Chinese rugs have swept America like a plague. Very beautiful rugs do come out of China, but most of the medium-priced ones shown in the cheaper stores are very difficult for the decorator's use, because their designs and texture are poor. The unwashed Chinese rugs are a possible menace to health, for they are made of wool from dead horses and cattle.

In general, intricacy of pattern in Oriental rugs mean high quality and high price, but the knot test is the standard of judgment.

Cupid's Wings Are Clipped to Solve Housing Problem

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—An attempt to solve the housing shortage by curtailing Cupid's activities is being made in Waldenburg by Director Schade, of the municipal housing commission.

A warning that the commission is sending to all couples, whose marriage intentions are posted in the city hall, in accordance with the law, reads:

"Don't get married. If you do, you will be forced to live with in-laws. You know what that means. There is no such thing as a 'home of your own.' The commission cannot promise you a place in which to live alone for eight or 10 years."

The commission controls absolutely the allocation of living quarters, determining even the number of rooms each family is entitled to.

GERM AND REMEDY
LONDON, Oct. 28.—Germs carry their own antidotes, according to Sir Thomas Horder, physician to the Prince of Wales. So, if a patient is suffering certain diseases the proper treatment is to give him more of the germ—the proper solution. The treatment has shown particularly good results in pneumonia and septicemia.
